Sympton Of Tensions

Congo Rule, U.N. Continue At Odds On Airport Issue

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—The Congolese government continued at odds with the United Nations today over a demand that it be allowed to guard Leopoldville Airport.

The dispute was a symptom of the tensions between the U. N. command and President Joseph Kasavubu's government. The United Nations refused to withdraw its airport guards in favor of the Congolese. The U. N. command said it has to guard its lines of communication.

Kasavubu has been reluctant to cooperate with the United Nations. He has demanded the recall of Rajeshwar Dayal, the U. N.'s Congo chief, on the ground that Dayal has allowed the control of leftist forces in Stanleyville to spread over a third of the country.

Kasavubu is following a policy of conciliation with the Congo's other anti-Communist leaders President Moise Tshombe of Katanga Province and Albert Kalonji, chief of the mining state of South Kasai.

In a conciliatory move Thursday, Interior Minister Cyril Adoula said a number of political prisoners will be freed by Kasavubu's government. He did not identify them but said prisoners' files will be examined and they will be released if their crimes were minor.

All was reported quiet in Luluabourg, scene of the worst massacre since the tumultuous days after independence last summer. The United Nations reported Congolese troops killed 44 civilians in the city about 400 miles east of Leopoldville.

The troops, owing allegiance to Kasavubu, went on a rampage after three of their comrades were killed by a mob of supporters of the late Patrice Lumumba, slain Congolese leader. The violence, on Tuesday night and Wednesday, followed the sudden evacuation of the town by troops from Stanleyville. U. N. Ghanaian troops maintained order after the rioting stopped. Nevertheless new reprisals from the rebels in Luluabourg, were feared.

U.S., Britain Plan New Bid In A-Test Ban

One More Big Effort Eyed To Negotiate Treaty With Soviet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Britain and the United States were reported fully agreed today to make one more major effort to negotiate a treaty outlawing nuclear test explosions with the Soviet Union.

The Kennedy administration is understood to be prepared, along with Britain, to offer Moscow some compromise proposals on the international inspection system which would be set up under the treaty to police the test ban.

But authorities here said that major concessions by the Soviets on their present insistence on minimum inspection will be necessary to meet the British-American policing requirements.

U. S. and British disarmament experts have agreed they should know by late May whether the Soviet government is seriously interested in making a test ban agreement. President Kennedy has told officials, and reportedly assured the British, that he is determined to get an agreement if the Soviets will accept reasonable inspection safeguards against cheating.

The next round of negotiations between the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union, will start in Geneva March 21. If within two months the talks prove fruitless, Kennedy will be under very heavy pressure from the Defense Department and the Atomic Energy Commission, authorities said, to order resumption of nuclear test explosions.

Jobless Total Shows Decline

Claims In February Reflect Drop Of 103

Unemployment in the East Liverpool area showed a slight decline in February from January's high, Harry L. Dinsmore, manager of the Ohio State Employment Service office, said today.

The total number of claims filed in the office last month reflected a drop of 103 from the number received in January. The total last month was 3,781 compared to 3,884 in January.

New claims were up 44 from January's 602 to 646 in February but continuing claims dropped from 3,282 to 3,135 last month, Dinsmore said.

Unstable work probably is the reason for the slight decline rather than the exhaustion of benefits, he pointed out.

At the end of last month, the office listed 969 people hunting work while there were 1,141 at the end of January. The office had 41 job openings last month and 37 in January, filling 22 jobs each month.

Dinsmore said 161 people exhausted their jobless benefits in the 11 months from January through November last year.

Meanwhile, Dinsmore said the local office paid out $90,893 in jobless benefits under the Ohio law during January. December benefits totaled $67,912.

'Thin Men' Get $1,000 Loot In Westfield

Jewelry And Guns, Other Items Taken In Family's Absence

Two "tall, thin" thieves waited outside a Lisbon St. home near Westfield Thursday night until dark, unsuccessfully tried to break in two doors, finally entered through a rear window and took jewelry, guns and other items valued at $1,000 while the family was out.

The pair broke into the home of Mr. and Mrs. William H. McCall while the couple was at the Goodwill Industries furniture mart of 329 Market St., which they operate.

The McCalls told sheriff's deputies the thieves stole two revolvers and a shotgun, all loaded, an almost new transistor radio, a pair of binoculars and a quantity of jewelry of Mrs. McCall.

Apparently aware that the couple would not arrive home before 8:30 p. m., the two men waited in a car across the roadway until dark.

They then battered through glass in the front door which would not open, and then broke a window in a side door, which they also failed to open.

The pair finally entered the home by removing a storm window and jimmying a rear window to a washroom, breaking glass in an interior door to get to the main part of the house.

They turned lights on to find their way about the home, according to neighbors who believed the McCalls had come home.

The pair, in the house between 7 and 7:30 p. m., probably left sooner than they planned because of the activities of neighbors going back and forth between homes.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Williams, leaving their nearby home about 7:30 for East Liverpool, saw the two get in the car and drive off toward Glenmoor with no lights on.

Neighbors said the men seemed to be tall and thin and young, but not teen-agers. The auto seemed to be an older green vehicle, possibly a Hudson.

Torn, Burned Bodies Recovered

22 Miners Killed As Explosion Rips Through Shaft In Indiana

Probe Opens Saturday To Seek Cause

Pockets Of Intense Heat Slow Rescuers Near Terre Haute

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP) — Twenty-two miners died in a flash explosion deep in a coal shaft Thursday night. Their torn, burned bodies were hauled out by masked workers in a hazardous 10-hour operation.

"We don't know what caused the explosion," the mine general manager said, "but we're going to start an investigation tomorrow morning to find out."

The 22nd body was carried out in a clattering mine rail car at 7:35 a.m. today. It had been about six hours since the first body was found.

The blast ripped through a shaft deep in the Viking mine about eight miles southwest of Terre Haute.

Pockets of intense heat and deadly coal gas threatened the operation and forced the rescuers to push forward with the greatest care.

They said there was danger of another explosion, and as they moved forward they sprayed chemicals to prevent it. State Police put up rope barriers 15 yards from the shaft to keep grieving relatives from danger.

The explosion was so far underground that nobody heard it, and mine officials were unable to pinpoint the time.

Just when the explosion was discovered was not clear, either. Apparently the first indication came about 7:45 p.m. when an air pressure gauge on the surface dropped to zero. An official attempted to telephone the miners and got no response to repeated, frantic ringing.

Then coal dust was seen billowing from the shaft.

Twenty-two other miners in another section were immediately ordered to the surface.

What touched off the explosion was not known. There was speculation that the miners broke through into an old shaft in which deadly coal gas had accumulated.

As soon as the explosion was discovered, fresh air was poured into the mine, but it had no chance of penetrating the wall of swirling dust, smoke and fumes—and, anyway, all 22 men apparently died in the blast.

The men were 265 feet below the surface and about three miles back in the sloping shaft.

Birch Brooks, vice president and general manager of the Viking Coal Corp., said, "We will have to check their belt numbers to identify them."

A rescue worker said: "You couldn't see anything in there. The smoke was black as night."

The mine has a total of about 200 employes working in shifts around the clock to provide fuel for the nearby Wabash power plant of the Public Service Company of Indiana.

Secret Talks For Algerian Peace Hinted

Both Sides Cautious After Rebels Accept Plan To Negotiate

PARIS (AP) — Algerian peace feelers moved underground today. Emissaries from the French government and the Algerian rebel high command are believed meeting in secret.

Both sides were moving cautiously after the rebels' acceptance of French President Charles de Gaulle's offer to negotiate an end to their 6½-year war for independence from France. Neither wants a fumble to endanger chances of success.

Algerian rebel officials in Tunis—site of their government-in-exile—said only "technical details" remain to be cleared up for open negotiations.

Louis Joxe, France's minister for Algerian affairs, has dropped from view, giving substance to reports of behind-the-scenes activity. The procedural questions involved are so delicate that both sides apparently feel that untangling them is a job best shielded from the public.

The rebels in Tunis expect that the French will make a new goodwill gesture as a show of good faith. They said they have strong indications the gesture will be the transfer of a top rebel leader from a French jail to a guarded residence near Paris where he would be available for political consultations.

Emergency Clause Dies In Senate

Long-Time Ohio Jobless Pin Hopes On Congress

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Congress apparently is the only hope of long-jobless Ohioans for emergency extension of their unemployment benefits.

Ohio Senate Democrats had a chance Thursday to give Ohioans who have exhausted their benefits emergency aid, starting next week, but they passed up the chance because they opposed other Republican - sponsored changes in the law. They called the changes "crippling."

Senate Minority Leader Frank W. King, D-Lucas, told the Senate:

"The imminence of congressional action makes passage of an Ohio law almost useless. As close as congressional approval is of a federal benefits extender, an emergency Ohio law would do nothing except jam up the machinery of the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation in its handling of regular claims."

Congressional leaders expect the federal extension of benefits for a maximum of 39 weeks to be effective about April 1.

For the record, the Ohio bill—now stripped permanently of its emergency clause—will return to the House Monday night for concurrence in amendments. The House is expected to go along.

But legislative observers freely predict that Democratic Gov. Michael V. DiSalle will veto the non-emergency bill which could not be in effect before early June. Senate Republicans do not have enough votes to override a veto.

Twenty-six votes were required to sustain an emergency clause by a two-thirds margin and the Republicans have only 20 Senate members. Twenty - three Senate votes would be required to override a veto.

On the showdown votes Thursday on both the emergency clause and the jobless benefits extender bill itself, party lines held firm. All 20 Republicans voted yes and all 18 Democrats voted no.

Thursday's showdown resulted from weeks of partisan battle and Sen. Joseph W. Bartunek, D-Cuyahoga, admitted it. He asserted:

"We are locked in a political battle which has nothing to do with the people we are trying to serve. Both parties are to blame and all 38 senators are to blame."

Bartunek accused both parties of trying to claim the credit for extending benefits to the long-time unemployed.

The upshot of the long battle is that neither side can claim credit because the total result of the long battle amounts to exactly zero.

The big debate ranged far afield as 16 of the 38 senators arose to speak their pieces on the controversial bill.

Senators from both sides used their best oratory to try to persuade the opposition that their stand best represented the greatest good for the greatest number. None of the speeches influenced a single vote.

The big game is over. There were no runs, a few hits and—to paraphase a number of senators of both parties—a few errors.

Other legislative action fell within the towering shadow of the big Senate battle:

The Ohio House passed and sent to the Senate a bill to lower from 65 to 55 per cent the majority needed to approve township hospital operating levies.

One of the proposals introduced before the lawmakers started their weekend recess would allow municipalities to set liquor license quotas within their boundaries, subject to a popular vote and zoning restrictions, rather than by population as under present law.

Another would permit county commissioners to fill vacancies in county offices with appointees of the same political party as the predecessor.

Still another would carry out Gov. DiSalle's desire for abolition of capital punishment in Ohio, a desire which was thwarted by the Democratic - dominated legislature of 1959.

Sewage Plant Worker Given Month Layoff

Payless Suspension Decreed Instead Of Dismissal By City

Charles E. Beatty's dismissal from a sewage plant operator's job for "incompetence and neglect of duty" was modified to a 30-day payless suspension in a ruling handed down Thursday night by the Municipal Civil Service Commission.

The commission issued a written opinion, based on two and a half hours of testimony and argument which it heard yesterday afternoon in the employe's appeal from a dismissal order issued Feb. 17 by Safety-Service Director Lee Copenhaver.

The commission, exercising its prerogative to "affirm, modify or disaffirm" the director's action, decreed the 30-day suspension effective Feb. 16, which means Beatty will go back to his $315-a-month post about March 18. He has not worked since the dismissal order.

Although the commission found that most of the charges brought against Beatty were proved by the city, it added that it felt dismissal "is too harsh" and pointed out it was the first instance of disciplinary action against an employe since the sewage plant went into operation about three years ago.

But its letter concluded with a warning that it may not show leniency in case of another violation. The letter said:

"The commission wishes to make it clear that in the event any disciplinary action is required in the future for any employe engaging in similar conduct that they will be regarded as having been warned by this case and are not to act under the assumption that future violations will be treated in the same way."

Copies of the commission's letter will go to Beatty, Copenhaver and City Auditor Lawrence C. Applegate, who is in charge of payrolls.

In the hearing yesterday, Commission Members Donal I. Burchman, Clarence E. Reagle and Ben H. Berman listened to testimony from Plant Supt. Charles Huddlestun, who originated the charges; the director, Beatty and his wife, Mrs. Mary Ann Beatty. Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper appeared for the city and Atty. John B. McDonald defended Beatty.

Huddlestun testified to back up the city's charges that Beatty failed to make periodic inspections,

Labor Council Will Seek Vote On City's Tax

Trades and Labor Council is preparing to begin circulation of petitions to force a vote at the Nov. 7 general election on the new city income tax that went into effect Jan. 27.

It plans to propose an initiative ordinance repealing the legislation enacted by Council levying a tax of five-tenths of one percent — 50 cents on each $100 of earnings. The tax will remain in effect pending the test at the polls, state law provides.

Before beginning circulation of the petitions, Trades Council will be required to file a copy of the proposed ordinance in the office of City Auditor Lawrence C. Applegate.

It will be required to obtain a minimum of 918 valid voters' sig-

Survey To Aid Wellsville

Jaycees To Poll Families On Highway Relocation

The Wellsville Junior Chamber of Commerce today announced plans to launch a survey of residents along the proposed Route 7 relocation through the city to determine what they plan to do if the new highway is constructed. Many would lose their homes.

After the questionnaires are returned, the information will be grouped and presented to city officials to assist them in planning the project. The Jaycees pointed out they are not taking a stand for or against the relocation.

Plans for the survey were formulated at a committee meeting Wednesday night. The committee includes Perry Mason, Tom Morris, Robert Heaton and Dan MacLean.

Each resident along the route proposed by the State Highway Department will be sent a questionnaire. They include residents of Buckeye Ave., Chester Ave., Arthur Ave., the section at 10th St. where a cloverleaf is proposed, Aten Ave. and the area around the Roadside Park, another proposed interchange, including sections of Wells Ave. and Highland Ave.

The questionnaires will be sent to one section at a time. They will contain a self-addressed, stamped envelope to return to the Jaycees.

All information will be held in strict confidence as far as individual answers are concerned. The forms will have a place for the householder to sign, but this is not necessary and will not be explained, the Jaycees said.

The residents will be asked if they own or rent their home, what type it is, the number that reside at the address, the number of children in school and which school they attend and also what church they attend.

They also will be requested to estimate the market value of the home, along with the tax valuation. The householders also will be asked where they will relocate if the home is purchased by the state. This question will be generalized to Wellsville proper, the immediate area or some other community.

The questionnaire form will be taken from the National Community Developemnt Survey project of the National Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Gov. And Mrs. Rockefeller Flee Safely In Flash Fire

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Gov. and Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller fled to safety early today as a flash fire wrecked New York's historic old executive mansion and destroyed pictures and art objects valued at more than $250,000.

The governor, roused by his wife, climbed from a second-floor bedroom window to the roof of a shelter over the main entrance and directed firemen in the rescue of three servants, temporarily isolated by flames in their third-floor quarters.

All occupants of the turreted, Victorian - style residence that once housed Presidents Grover Cleveland and two Roosevelts, Theodore and Franklin D., escaped down ladders without injury.

Paintings charred by flames that apparently originated in the main floor drawing room and swept up the wide, main staircase included numerous old masters valued at about $200,000. They were given to the mansion by W. Averell Harriman, Rockefeller's immediate predecessor in office.

The cause of the fire was not determined.

The fire was brought under control about an hour after it was discovered.

The disheveled governor toured the lower floors of the 40-room mansion with firemen as soon as the flames were extinguished.

Jobless Total Shows Decline

Claims In February Reflect Drop Of 103

Unemployment in the East Liverpool area showed a slight decline in February from January's high, Harry L. Dinsmore, manager of the Ohio State Employment Service office, said today.

The total number of claims filed in the office last month reflected a drop of 103 from the number received in January. The total last month was 3,781 compared to 3,884 in January.

New claims were up 44 from January's 602 to 646 in February but continuing claims dropped from 3,282 to 3,135 last month, Dinsmore said.

Unstable work probably is the reason for the slight decline rather than the exhaustion of benefits, he pointed out.

At the end of last month, the office listed 969 people hunting work while there were 1,141 at the end of January. The office had 41 job openings last month and 37 in January, filling 22 jobs each month.

Dinsmore said 161 people exhausted their jobless benefits in the 11 months from January through November last year.

Meanwhile, Dinsmore said the local office paid out $90,893 in jobless benefits under the Ohio law during January. December benefits totaled $67,912.

Torn, Burned Bodies Recovered

22 Miners Killed As Explosion Rips Through Shaft In Indiana

Probe Opens Saturday To Seek Cause

Pockets Of Intense Heat Slow Rescuers Near Terre Haute

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP) — Twenty-two miners died in a flash explosion deep in a coal shaft Thursday night. Their torn, burned bodies were hauled out by masked workers in a hazardous 10-hour operation.

"We don't know what caused the explosion," the mine general manager said, "but we're going to start an investigation tomorrow morning to find out."

The 22nd body was carried out in a clattering mine rail car at 7:35 a.m. today. It had been about six hours since the first body was found.

The blast ripped through a shaft deep in the Viking mine about eight miles southwest of Terre Haute.

Pockets of intense heat and deadly coal gas threatened the operation and forced the rescuers to push forward with the greatest care.

They said there was danger of another explosion, and as they moved forward they sprayed chemicals to prevent it. State Police put up rope barriers 15 yards from the shaft to keep grieving relatives from danger.

The explosion was so far underground that nobody heard it, and mine officials were unable to pinpoint the time.

Just when the explosion was discovered was not clear, either. Apparently the first indication came about 7:45 p.m. when an air pressure gauge on the surface dropped to zero. An official attempted to telephone the miners and got no response to repeated, frantic ringing.

Then coal dust was seen billowing from the shaft.

Twenty-two other miners in another section were immediately ordered to the surface.

What touched off the explosion was not known. There was speculation that the miners broke through into an old shaft in which deadly coal gas had accumulated.

As soon as the explosion was discovered, fresh air was poured into the mine, but it had no chance of penetrating the wall of swirling dust, smoke and fumes—and, anyway, all 22 men apparently died in the blast.

The men were 265 feet below the surface and about three miles back in the sloping shaft.

Birch Brooks, vice president and general manager of the Viking Coal Corp., said, "We will have to check their belt numbers to identify them."

A rescue worker said: "You couldn't see anything in there. The smoke was black as night."

The mine has a total of about 200 employes working in shifts around the clock to provide fuel for the nearby Wabash power plant of the Public Service Company of Indiana.

Both Sides Cautious After Rebels Accept Plan To Negotiate

PARIS (AP) — Algerian peace feelers moved underground today. Emissaries from the French government and the Algerian rebel high command are believed meeting in secret.

Both sides were moving cautiously after the rebels' acceptance of French President Charles de Gaulle's offer to negotiate an end to their 6½-year war for independence from France. Neither wants a fumble to endanger chances of success.

The rebels in Tunis expect that the French will make a new goodwill gesture as a show of good faith. They said they have strong indications the gesture will be the transfer of a top rebel leader from a French jail to a guarded residence near Paris where he would be available for political consultations.

Emergency Clause Dies In Senate

Long-Time Ohio Jobless Pin Hopes On Congress

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Congress apparently is the only hope of long-jobless Ohioans for emergency extension of their unemployment benefits.

Ohio Senate Democrats had a chance Thursday to give Ohioans who have exhausted their benefits emergency aid, starting next week, but they passed up the chance because they opposed other Republican-sponsored changes in the law. They called the changes "crippling."

The big debate ranged far afield as 16 of the 38 senators arose to speak their pieces on the controversial bill.

Senators from both sides used their best oratory to try to persuade the opposition that their stand best represented the greatest good for the greatest number. None of the speeches influenced a single vote.

The big game is over. There were no runs, a few hits and—to paraphase a number of senators of both parties—a few errors.

Other legislative action fell within the towering shadow of the big Senate battle:

The Ohio House passed and sent to the Senate a bill to lower from 65 to 55 per cent the majority needed to approve township hospital operating levies.

One of the proposals introduced before the lawmakers started their weekend recess would allow municipalities to set liquor license quotas within their boundaries, subject to a popular vote and zoning restrictions, rather than by population as under present law.

Another would permit county commissioners to fill vacancies in county offices with appointees of the same political party as the predecessor.

Still another would carry out Gov. DiSalle's desire for abolition of capital punishment in Ohio, a desire which was thwarted by the Democratic-dominated legislature of 1959.

Survey To Aid Wellsville

Jaycees To Poll Families On Highway Relocation

The Wellsville Junior Chamber of Commerce today announced plans to launch a survey of residents along the proposed Route 7 relocation through the city to determine what they plan to do if the new highway is constructed. Many would lose their homes.

After the questionnaires are returned, the information will be grouped and presented to city officials to assist them in planning the project. The Jaycees pointed out they are not taking a stand for or against the relocation.

Plans for the survey were formulated at a committee meeting Wednesday night. The committee includes Perry Mason, Tom Morris, Robert Heaton and Dan MacLean.

Each resident along the route proposed by the State Highway Department will be sent a questionnaire. They include residents of Buckeye Ave., Chester Ave., Arthur Ave., the section at 10th St. where a cloverleaf is proposed, Aten Ave. and the area around the Roadside Park, another proposed interchange, including sections of Wells Ave. and Highland Ave.

The questionnaires will be sent to one section at a time. They will contain a self-addressed, stamped envelope to return to the Jaycees.

All information will be held in strict confidence as far as individual answers are concerned. The forms will have a place for the householder to sign, but this is not necessary and will not be explained, the Jaycees said.

The residents will be asked if they own or rent their home, what type it is, the number that reside at the address, the number of children in school and which school they attend and also what church they attend.

They also will be requested to estimate the market value of the home, along with the tax valuation. The householders also will be asked where they will relocate if the home is purchased by the state. This question will be generalized to Wellsville proper, the immediate area or some other community.

The questionnaire form will be taken from the National Community Developemnt Survey project of the National Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The Wellsville Jaycees attempted to conduct such a survey about two years ago on a door-to-door ba-

Sewage Plant Worker Given Month Layoff

Payless Suspension Decreed Instead Of Dismissal By City

Charles E. Beatty's dismissal from a sewage plant operator's job for "incompetence and neglect of duty" was modified to a 30-day payless suspension in a ruling handed down Thursday night by the Municipal Civil Service Commission.

The commission issued a written opinion, based on two and a half hours of testimony and argument which it heard yesterday afternoon in the employe's appeal from a dismissal order issued Feb. 17 by Safety-Service Director Lee Copenhaver.

The commission, exercising its prerogative to "affirm, modify or disaffirm" the director's action, decreed the 30-day suspension effective Feb. 16, which means Beatty will go back to his $315-a-month post about March 18. He has not worked since the dismissal order.

Although the commission found that most of the charges brought against Beatty were proved by the city, it added that it felt dismissal "is too harsh" and pointed out it was the first instance of disciplinary action against an employe since the sewage plant went into operation about three years ago.

But its letter concluded with a warning that it may not show leniency in case of another violation. The letter said:

"The commission wishes to make it clear that in the event any disciplinary action is required in the future for any employe engaging in similar conduct that they will be regarded as having been warned by this case and are not to act under the assumption that future violations will be treated in the same way."

Copies of the commission's letter will go to Beatty, Copenhaver and City Auditor Lawrence C. Applegate, who is in charge of payrolls.

In the hearing yesterday, Commission Members Donal I. Burchman, Clarence E. Reagle and Ben H. Berman listened to testimony from Plant Supt. Charles Huddlestun, who originated the charges; the director, Beatty and his wife, Mrs. Mary Ann Beatty, Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper appeared for the city and Atty. John B. McDonald defended Beatty.

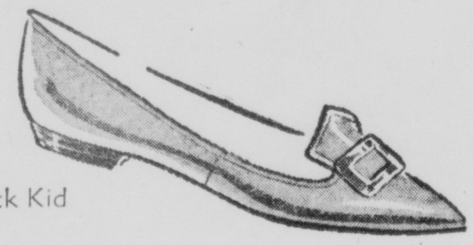

Huddlestun testified to back up the city's charges that Beatty failed to make periodic inspections,

Elderly Widow Dies In Farm Home Blaze

LEIPSIC, Ohio (AP)—An elderly widow burned to death early today when her farm residence was destroyed by fire.

The victim was Mrs. William Blue, about 75, who had lived alone in the two-story frame dwelling on a Putnam County road three miles west of here.

A neighbor, Virgil Bruck, discovered the fire and called volunteer firemen, but the blaze had gained such headway they were unable to get it under control. Hours later when the house had been destroyed they found Mrs. Blue's body.

It was believed that the woman, a semi-invalid, had been sleeping on the first floor near a door, and that she may have been overcome by smoke and unable to reach the door.

NEW YORK (AP)—Actor John Payne has been assured by doctors that facial cuts he suffered Wednesday night when struck by a car would not leave scars that might imperil his career.

Payne, 48, was pronounced in satisfactory condition Thursday night at Roosevelt Hospital.

He suffered two broken bones of the left leg, plus facial cuts and lacerations, when hit by an auto while walking across Madison Avenue between 61st and 63rd streets.

The driver, Bernard Selz, 21, a Wall Street research analyst, said he did not see Payne. It was raining at the time.

Funeral Services, Burial Saturday For 'Golden Girl'

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — The body of Adelaide Darling Avery, 21, Purdue University's most famous Golden Girl, will be taken to Manteca, Calif., Saturday for services and burial.

Mrs. Avery died Thursday of a massive hemorrhage of the brain. She had been stricken Tuesday and never regained consciousness.

As the Golden Girl she performed in a brief costume with the Purdue band at football games. A controversy developed in 1958 over her hula dance, which shocked some Purdue coeds.

Last November she was married to Vell Avery III, Binghamton, N.Y., a Purdue science junior, and was replaced as Golden Girl. A junior majoring in home economics, she dropped out of school at the end of the first semester.

His death was reported due to a heart ailment.

The representative had returned home by automobile Thursday afternoon after the Legislature had recessed for the weekend. He was a member of the Kenton law firm of Mahon and Lady.

He leaves his widow, and a daughter, Ellen.

Rep. Lady was chairman of the powerful reference committee in the House, the group which controls the assignment of bills to other committees. He also was a member of the government operations committee.

3 Posts Filled For DeMolays

Three officers were elected when Harding Chapter, Order of DeMolay, met Thursday night in the Masonic Temple.

David Conley was named master councilor; Dale Hoffman, senior councilor, and Larry White, junior councilor. Their terms begin in April.

Ten petitions for membership were approved. Roger Hicks, scribe, reported 2,660 points had been earned to date in a state efficiency contest.

The bowling team will meet every Saturday noon, while the basketball team will hold practice every Monday at 7:30 p. m. in the old gymnasium of East Liverpool High School.

Robert Kidd, DeMolay dad, presented a taper lighter to the chapter on behalf of the Advisory Board. Thomas Powers, master councilor, presided.

A dance was planned March 25 in the temple from 8:30 to 11:30 p. m. Records will furnish music and dress will be casual.

The next meeting is March 16 with initiation ceremonies planned in the temple.

Funeral Services, Burial Saturday For 'Golden Girl'

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — The body of Adelaide Darling Avery, 21, Purdue University's most famous Golden Girl, will be taken to Manteca, Calif., Saturday for services and burial.

Mrs. Avery died Thursday of a massive hemorrhage of the brain. She had been stricken Tuesday and never regained consciousness.

As the Golden Girl she performed in a brief costume with the Purdue band at football games. A controversy developed in 1958 over her hula dance, which shocked some Purdue coeds.

Last November she was married to Vell Avery III, Binghamton, N.Y., a Purdue science junior, and was replaced as Golden Girl. A junior majoring in home economics, she dropped out of school at the end of the first semester.

Start With The Dixie Faction

Never have so many people been urging so many other people to understand the two-arty system.

There's a special reason.

Americans never have been so keenly aware of their privilege of having a political arrangement that gives the minority an assured role in government.

This is the advantage they share with the British over other forms of government and especially over one-party governments. They realize that if anything happened to the two-party system they would be the victims. It isn't the system they must save but the benefits the system bestows on them.

So, on to fuller understanding of the two-party system, starting with Democrats in the U.S. House of Representatives and the U.S. Senate who have complained over a national television network that their legislative program, as laid down by President Kennedy, is in danger of being blocked by a coalition of Republicans and southern Democrats.

THEY TALK as if a southern Democrat had ceased to be a member of President Kennedy's party by being born in the South. They make it sound as if these people had foresworn their standing as legislative representatives of the Democratic party by signifying that they cherish their right to vote against the party's dominant faction.

But the most remarkable thing the complaining Democrats do is to make it appear that Republican leadership in the House and Senate has no right to accept, let alone seek, the votes of southern Democrats on issues that divide the two houses of Congress.

If the complaining Democrats meant these things, they would be guilty of gross lack of understanding of the two-party system.

THE VOTES of southern Democrats helped to elect a Democratic president last November.

The votes of southern Democrats have kept the Democratic party in charge of congressional committees in all but a few years since the Roosevelt era.

The support of southern Democrats in the nominating convention last summer was valued so highly that most of the politicking which went on was concerned with ways and means of securing it for the contenders —and especially for the winning contender.

But it not be assumed from the way Democrats not from the South complain about Democrats who are from the South that a chasm has opened up between them.

The chasm, such as it is, opens up only when non-southern Democrats want to make it appear that they could perform legislative miracles were it not for Republicans making deals with perfidious southern Democrats.

At all other times—and more so on Election Day than any other time—all Democrats are brothers.

THIS IS ONE of the things that require understanding in the two-party system. Divisions inside parties are as deep and as wide as divisions between the parties.

But neither party can separate itself at will into anything less than the sum of all its parts. Republicans couldn't do it under Dwight Eisenhower, and Democrats can't do it under John F. Kennedy.

Southern Democrats are just as respectable and infinitely more powerful than their brethren who live elsewhere.

Don't believe it when the "elsewhere faction" talks as if it owed nothing to its Dixie faction. It owes everything it is or hopes to be to the Dixie faction.

Old Americans Peace Corps

On a basis of theory, there is fire and spice in the idea for a Peace Corps of Young Americans to help underdeveloped countries get on their feet. President Kennedy, who is not far from being a young American himself, says he will put the idea into effect with an executive order, leaving it to Congress to thresh out later after watching a pilot operation.

Onward youth!

But pardon our skepticism about the ability of our energetic siblings to help struggling societies to their feet. All they have to offer is manpower, and manpower is what the struggling societies already have in abundance. Their shortage is in know-how, especially the kind that tells them what not to do because the odds are rigged against success.

It would be ridiculous to talk about a Peace Corps of Old Americans. No one ever talks about old Americans, except in connection with health insurance and special housing with ramps for wheel chairs. But oldness in Americans is still relative, not absolute, and it would be worth matching the Peace Corps of Young Americans with a Peace Corps of Retired Americans.

The oldies could tag along to tell the youngsters some of the things not to do, like not teaching grandmothers how to suck eggs. That used to be a common way of saying that young people should remember that their elders learned a little something as they went along and to ignore this is one of the mistakes no smart youngster should make.

Please, Mr. President . . .

Sign two executive orders. Someone will have to tell the kids what not to do, lest they use all that energy to make the battered old U.S.A. look like the all-time champion chump for sending boys to do men's work.

First Step, Again

Chester officials again are buckling down to some brass tacks study of the city's proposed sewage disposal program, in the planning stage for nine years.

It is no easy task to shoulder responsibility for a major financing project for a community of 3,800, pressed by the requirements of the Ohio River Valley Water Sanitation Commission on one hand and mounting construction costs and limited finances on the other.

But a full understanding of the needs and the best means of meeting them is the first step in working out a solution to the problem. And the current Council and Sanitary Board now appear to be making an effort in that direction.

The city officials deserve public support in coming to grips realistically with the sewage project with the hope that some clear policy will result.

No Upset When The Favorite Wins

It is not a sensational development that James R. Hoffa, president of the Teamsters Union, has been given his release from the monitors who have been looking over his shoulder for three years. The release was expected.

This leaves Hoffa free to run for president of the union with no strings attached. The union convention will be held in mid-May, and at that time Hoffa is expected to be a shoo-in for another term.

He was elected in October 1957 to succeed Dave Beck at a time when there was a touch-and-go situation in the Teamsters Union as a result of nationwide interest in the union's management under Beck. His election was blocked temporarily by a federal court order. At about the same time the union was expelled by AFL-CIO.

A compromise reached early in 1958 enabled him to fill the office of president under the supervision of three court-appointed monitors. It is this arrangement that has been terminated.

But it's never an upset when the favorite wins, and James R. Hoffa has become the favorite in all contests that he enters. The reason is plain.

It's because he has won all the contests he has entered. He has demonstrated his right to go into all contests as the favorite by winning the ones he had to win. And he has done this by the sheer strength of his position as leader of the country's largest union, backed up by a powerful organization.

Congressional investigations have not daunted him. The power of the federal government has not hampered him. The election of John F. Kennedy, whom he opposed and who has publicly excoriated him, has not daunted him.

Nothing succeeds like success and the success of James R. Hoffa is legendary.

The Once Over

FCC has authorized test of Pay-TV in Hartford, Conn., telecasting quality programs free from commercials. It will cost fans as high as $3.50 a show but that's cheap if you get a guarantee you will see no pro wrestlers, private eyes or chimpanzees riding bicycles. (If a frontier town marshal comes through, you'll know your set is leaking.)

This will also be true if you encounter a Laurel & Hardy rerun, a man being hunted by helicopter for stealing a butterd bun or four comedians on one show doing same routine.

A Pay-TV fan won't even know how Charlie Chan is doing, whether anybody has yet outsmarted Perry Mason or if they have stopped using the three platoon system of district attorneys on that show.

Broadway plays will be shown. This will be welcomed as giving folks a chance to see them without being stepped on through half of the opening act and without danger of having an usher pipe, "I'll have to see your seat stubs" half way through second. Also you can drink homemade orange juice and save big dough.

There is fear that if pay TV succeeds, free shows will deteriorate badly. People may get only Amos & Andy reruns, the right time twice a day and weather forecasts only from MEN instead of photogenic dolls whose personality appeal is so strong the audience can think of Winter Garden chorus while getting data on weather.

(Office optimist who is for pay TV says, "You've been put to sleep for free all these years) why object to being kept awake through a TV program even if it costs a little dough?")

What A Keyhole

Overtime Soars With The Rockets

By Victor Riesel

Some of the unionized craftsmen working on skies-scraping projects at Cape Canaveral and other missile and rocket-testing bases have been paid as much as $1,000 a week. Other construction workers have struggled along on $600-$800 weekly.

Victor Riesel

This is not the average wage — but investigators who have just returned from the Cape reported to Sen. John McClellan that the big pie-in-the-sky project wages warrant a national probe.

The $600 - $1,000 - a - week pay checks result from enforced overtime pay.

This runs from time and a half on some night shift work to double time on Sundays and holidays. On double-time days some construction workers can roll up almost $100 extra at their rates, the world's highest.

Pentagon demands for overtime work have been provoked by a truly endless series of strikes — some authorized, some wildcat, but all costly in time as well as money.

Since all rocket and missile experimentation and construction is geared to a target date — frequently affected by the Soviet's cold war propaganda tactics — our armed forces call in their construction workers sometimes for almost round-the-clock activity after the stoppages.

INVOLVED have been the highest paid of the best-paid construction craftsmen. But even the semi-skilled walk away with big pay checks after a stoppage. The unions most frequently involved have been the electrical brotherhood, the pipe fitters, the iron workers, the carpenters and the hod carriers and common laborers.

Sen. McClellan was also angered by what himself learned at the Cape during a recent two-day visit and he plans to return with the sheaf of reports just handed him.

He and some of his Government Operations Committee, including Sen. Karl Mundt, wants to know the cause of the numerous walkouts, wholesale sick reports and wildcats.

The senators and their investigators know the effect of the stoppages, which have eaten into the Pentagon appropriation.

Tens of millions of dollars have been spent in enforced overtime pay and on the "cleaning up" operations after these strikes.

This overtime and mopping-up cost is part of the $100 million in extra bills which the missile construction program is now expected to cost above the original estimate.

THE COMMITTEE, knowing the effect, now wants to know the cause. As of now, open hearings, at which high Pentagon, industrial and union brass will testify, probably will start the first week in April.

What the senators want to know is — why have there been over 125 strikes at just four major bases since July 1, 1959? These have cost well over 100,000 man days. To make this up takes a lot of overtime.

The air bases hardest and most frequently hit are the Canaveral and Patrick Air Force complex; and the ballistic missile launching pads and testing sites at Vandenberg in California, Warren in Wyoming and Offutt in Nebraska.

Typical are three strikes at the Canaveral complex which over some months slowed up work on the Titan missile and the Centaur and Saturn rockets.

During one construction workers' strike some carpenters went out at dawn. Five hours later nearly 1,000 members of other unions had respected the pickets. Work was either slowed or entirely stopped for 12 days, depending where you looked.

NOT LONG after that hundreds again obeyed a picket line of a handful of electricians and pipe fitters who objected to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's bringing in some of its own technicians.

Another time, toward year end a few iron workers delayed work for almost a week when they walked out in protest against the awarding of a tiny ($25,000) contract to a northern firm with which they had been feuding.

There have also been scores of strikes resulting from one union's objecting to certain work being given to members of another union.

Now the Senate will look into just how the local "little" unions and their virtually unknown officials have developed such power —and why this costs the people (including other union members, of course) so much in defense expenditures.

Cotton Corners

By Truman Twill

Dear Newphew: Why do you keep asking me why politicians give you the willies? You might as well ask me why pork upsets your stomach.

Me, I have no trouble with pork or politicians. I can take 'em, or I can let 'em alone. They don't bother me. I like them, as a matter of fact.

Your trouble is that you have an allergy. Something has gone haywire in your own makeup that crosses you up. If you had a choice, you would like to think of pork and politicians as a pleasant side of life, the same as I would like to enjoy roses if it weren't for my rose fever.

As to politicians, I am increasingly sure of one thing. They are misunderstood. Their role in our affairs is misunderstood.

They reflect all the things we are, and that is one reason we dislike them. They become personalized symbols of everything good and bad about our society.

I shall never forget that Adolf Hitler built his career of plunder, brutality and murder on the mass-character of the German people. It is hard to believe now, and it was harder to believe then, but the German people liked what they saw in Hitler.

The Cuban people like what they see in Castro. Many Americans liked what they saw in Huey Long. Many liked what they saw in Joe McCarthy. And let's not forget that Gov. Jimmie Davis of Louisiana is beloved by members of the White Citizens Council down South and that every politician whose fame has spread is the spokesman for people who hang on his words.

That, I'd suppose, is what makes you queasy. You hate to admit the reality of the horror the bad politicians reflect. But there's always the other kind — the ones who reflect what is good, noble and admirable.

Keep your eye on them, too. That's the kind I tried to be when I served a term as township trustee — good, noble and admirable. That was me. But there was a catch to it.

I took myself so seriously in my good, noble and admirable role that I lost touch with my constituents, who were none of these things. They were sore about the upkeep of the roads and the tottery condition of the bridges. They were on their ear about ditch problems we were having at that time.

Consequently, I was in power for only one term, because what my constituents wanted me to reflect was annoyance, cupidity, thirst for vegeance and desire to get something for nothing. I overestimated their nobility.

That's the way it goes.

Overestimating people is a good way to get elected the first time, but it's not a good way to stay elected. Voters like to be buttered up. They love to have their seamy sides rubbed. I learned a lot about politics in a hurry when I was a politician.

So remember that when you look at these people it's like looking into a mirror and seeing the "body politic" reflected. It's not always pretty, but don't cringe. It's real. Just remember to keep looking, though.

I remember hearing years ago about the mayor of a town who was so popular it was impossible to win against him. His opponent always conceded as soon as the polls closed. Finally, the mayor died in office at a ripe old age. He had been the perfect reflection of everything his community wanted him to be.

If I won't be accused of undue prejudice, that's why Dwight Eisenhower could have been re-elected last November. He was the perfect reflection of a top-heavy majority of his countrymen. Even the ones opposed to him, because he was in their way, had to concede he was the all-American political symbol — the man everybody would like to be.

You give a little more thought to the politicians who don't give you the willies. And accept our regards as usual.

The School Aid Issue

By David Lawrence

Refund Offered As Answer To Problem

President Kennedy has sought to clarify the paradox referred to in these dispatches at the time he submitted to Congress his message on education. He called then for federal aid to college students, irrespective of whether they attended religious institutions but did not favor such aid to children attending parochial schools at the elementary and secondary levels.

David Lawrence

The President, in his latest press conference, left the door wide open for Congress—so far as constitutional questions are concerned—to extend federal aid to parents who do not send their children to public elementary schools but who favor their attendance at private or parochial schools.

The President clarified the issues when in answer to a question he said:

"Well, the Constitution clearly prohibits aid to the school, the parochial school. There is no doubt about that. The Everson case, which is probably the most celebrated case, provided only, by a 5-4 decision, was it possible for a local community to provide bus rides to non-public school children but all through the majority and minority statements on that particular question there was a very clear prohibition against aid to the school direct.

"The Supreme Court made its decision in the Everson case by determining that the aid was to the child, not to the school.

"Aid to the school is—there isn't any room for debate on that subject. It is prohibited by the Constitution, and the Supreme Court has made that very clear. Therefore, there would be no possibility of our recommending it."

THE PRESIDENT didn't discuss the question of how aid might be given to the parents of the younger students in much the same way as it is given to the students of college age. In fact, in answer to another question, Mr. Kennedy said:

"The aid that we have recommended to colleges is in a different form. We are aiding the student in the same way the GI Bill of Rights aided the student.

"The scholarships are given to the students who have particular talents and they can go to the college they want. In that case it is aid to the student, not to the school or college and, therefore, not to a particular religious group.

"That is the distinction between them, except in the case of aid to medical schools, and that has been done for a number of years because that is a particular kind of technical assistance. The constitutional question has not arisen on that matter."

What the President is really pointing out could be called a distinction without a difference. Opponents of federal aid to any students who would use the money for tuition in church schools are logically calling, in effect, for a repeal of the GI Bill of Rights and all forms of scholarships that pay for education in any non-public institutions.

Defenders of the existing policies of aid at the college level are logical in insisting that, if it is consitutional to extend such aid with federal funds—even if the money goes to religious colleges or private institutions—then it is also lawful to extend such aid to the parents of those children of elementary and high school age who are enrolled in parochial schools.

THE SUPREME COURT of the United States in the Everson case in February, 1947, referring to fire and police protection, bus transportation and similar services to all schools, said:

"Of course, cutting off church schools from these services, so separate and so indisputably marked off from the religious function, would make it far more difficult for the schools to operate but such is obviously not the purpose of the First Amendment.

"That amendment requires the state to be a neutral in its relations with groups of religious believers and non-believers; it does not require the state to be their adversary. State power is no more to be used so as to handicap religions, than it is to favor them."

By the same token, if the federal government extends aid to public school children, as is being suggested, and denies such aid to children who go to parochial or other private schools, then it can be accused of handicapping the religious education which is voluntarily sought by parents for their children in order to supplement the regular course of studies.

To understand the problem, it can well be imagined what a financial burden in higher taxes for the community would be imposed if parents of children now attending private and parochial schools were suddenly to decide to send them all to public schools.

The states would have to pay heavily every year to take care of the nearly seven million children now attending private and parochial schools. Many extra teachers would have to be hired and new buildings erected.

CERTAINLY the extent to which the taxpayers today are being relieved of this extra burden in the community involves sums many times larger than the federal assistance that might be granted to those parents of children of elementary- and secondary school age who desire to send them to religious schools but at the same time cannot afford the double burden they are carrying today.

Perhaps the way out is to refund to such parents certain amounts out of their tax payments, which could then be used for education in private schools. This would not be direct aid to the school or educational institution but to the students themselves.

Letters To The Editor

Citizens of East Liverpool: I feel that you should be brought to light on a serious violation that has been and is being committed 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, every year.

That is overloading of heavy trailer trucks passing through East Liverpool.

I know what I am talking about because I drove them 22 years and was forced to haul overloads. When I rebelled I was fired under false charges while my own union upheld the company I worked for. The union told me, quote, "What the h— do you care how much they're overloaded as long as you're getting paid for it!"

As you know you are tagged for a few minutes for over parking with a fine of $1. You are paying a city income tax, but you are also paying for the damage done by these seriously overloaded trucks which go through East Liverpool unmolested in violation of hundreds of dollars each. They could have easily loaded their cargo legally and still had a good profit.

For example, E. 3rd St. and Market St. had to be resurfaced. Who foots the bill, the trucking companies or we the citizens?

No doubt there will be some truck owners who will probably reply that the trucks pay their way, but figures don't lie. But they still will try to twist them in their favor.

Our weight laws are plenty liberal, but it would not matter how high they placed the load limit there are always companies who try to come through illegally overloaded and let the innocent public pay while they reap the profits.

I have talked to the mayor, safety-service director and a few members of the Council to have an ordinance voted in to weigh these trucks. It is up to you citizens to cooperate and have this ordinance passed by phoning the members of Council or the mayor of your wishes.

In the Feb. 28 edition of The Review, President Kennedy proposed a new tax for financing superhighways by placing a greater share of the burden on trucks. Otherwise they will have to increase the federal tax on gasoline. And this would mean you pave the roads for the trucks while they continue to reap the benefits. I want the people in East Liverpool and vicinity to know just how wonderful the teen-agers around here really are.

In the week and three days since my son Jeffrey Taylor, 17, a former senior at East Liverpool High School, was killed in an auto accident and his girl companion, Annette Wilson, seriously hurt I have found out that for every bad or so-called bad teen-agers there are many, many more good ones.

The wonderful tribute paid to my son since his death has proved to me they are certainly a misunderstood group. I don't think the teen-ager of today is given enough credit for his or her good deeds.

After all we do live in a democracy and the teen-agers should have certain legal rights.

Boys as well as girls cried unashamed by my son's casket, so I know they loved him, and many told me so. We have received more than 100 cards and messages telling us they share our sorrow.

We still have a teen-ager in our family, Janice, 14, and an older son, Jim. And I only hope and pray they can show the love and kindness to others that was shown to us over the great loss of our son.

Start With The Dixie Faction

Never have so many people been urging so many other people to understand the two-arty system.

There's a special reason.

Americans never have been so keenly aware of their privilege of having a political arrangement that gives the minority an assured role in government.

This is the advantage they share with the British over other forms of government and especially over one-party governments. They realize that if anything happened to the two-party system they would be the victims. It isn't the system they must save but the benefits the system bestows on them.

So, on to fuller understanding of the two-party system, starting with Democrats in the U.S. House of Representatives and the U.S. Senate who have complained over a national television network that their legislative program, as laid down by President Kennedy, is in danger of being blocked by a coalition of Republicans and southern Democrats.

THEY TALK as if a southern Democrat had ceased to be a member of President Kennedy's party by being born in the South. They make it sound as if these people had foresworn their standing as legislative representatives of the Democratic party by signifying that they cherish their right to vote against the party's dominant faction.

But the most remarkable thing the complaining Democrats do is to make it appear that Republican leadership in the House and Senate has no right to accept, let alone seek, the votes of southern Democrats on issues that divide the two houses of Congress.

If the complaining Democrats meant these things, they would be guilty of gross lack of understanding of the two-party system.

THE VOTES of southern Democrats helped to elect a Democratic president last November.

The votes of southern Democrats have kept the Democratic party in charge of congressional committees in all but a few years since the Roosevelt era.

The support of southern Democrats in the nominating convention last summer was valued so highly that most of the politicking which went on was concerned with ways and means of securing it for the contenders —and especially for the winning contender.

But it not be assumed from the way Democrats not from the South complain about Democrats who are from the South that a chasm has opened up between them.

The chasm, such as it is, opens up only when non-southern Democrats want to make it appear that they could perform legislative miracles were it not for Republicans making deals with perfidious southern Democrats.

At all other times—and more so on Election Day than any other time—all Democrats are brothers.

THIS IS ONE of the things that require understanding in the two-party system. Divisions inside parties are as deep and as wide as divisions between the parties.

But neither party can separate itself at will into anything less than the sum of all its parts. Republicans couldn't do it under Dwight Eisenhower, and Democrats can't do it under John F. Kennedy.

Southern Democrats are just as respectable and infinitely more powerful than their brethren who live elsewhere.

Don't believe it when the "elsewhere faction" talks as if it owed nothing to its Dixie faction. It owes everything it is or hopes to be to the Dixie faction.

Old Americans Peace Corps

On a basis of theory, there is fire and spice in the idea for a Peace Corps of Young Americans to help underdeveloped countries get on their feet. President Kennedy, who is not far from being a young American himself, says he will put the idea into effect with an executive order, leaving it to Congress to thresh out later after watching a pilot operation.

Onward youth!

But pardon our skepticism about the ability of our energetic siblings to help struggling societies to their feet. All they have to offer is manpower, and manpower is what the struggling societies already have in abundance. Their shortage is in know-how, especially the kind that tells them what not to do because the odds are rigged against success.

It would be ridiculous to talk about a Peace Corps of Old Americans. No one ever talks about old Americans, except in connection with health insurance and special housing with ramps for wheel chairs. But oldness in Americans is still relative, not absolute, and it would be worth matching the Peace Corps of Young Americans with a Peace Corps of Retired Americans.

The oldies could tag along to tell the youngsters some of the things not to do, like not teaching grandmothers how to suck eggs. That used to be a common way of saying that young people should remember that their elders learned a little something as they went along and to ignore this is one of the mistakes no smart youngster should make.

Please, Mr. President . . .

Sign two executive orders. Someone will have to tell the kids what not to do, lest they use all that energy to make the battered old U.S.A. look like the all-time champion chump for sending boys to do men's work.

First Step, Again

Chester officials again are buckling down to some brass tacks study of the city's proposed sewage disposal program, in the planning stage for nine years.

It is no easy task to shoulder responsibility for a major financing project for a community of 3,800, pressed by the requirements of the Ohio River Valley Water Sanitation Commission on one hand and mounting construction costs and limited finances on the other.

But a full understanding of the needs and the best means of meeting them is the first step in working out a solution to the problem. And the current Council and Sanitary Board now appear to be making an effort in that direction.

The city officials deserve public support in coming to grips realistically with the sewage project with the hope that some clear policy will result.

No Upset When The Favorite Wins

It is not a sensational development that James R. Hoffa, president of the Teamsters Union, has been given his release from the monitors who have been looking over his shoulder for three years. The release was expected.

This leaves Hoffa free to run for president of the union with no strings attached. The union convention will be held in mid-May, and at that time Hoffa is expected to be a shoo-in for another term.

He was elected in October 1957 to succeed Dave Beck at a time when there was a touch-and-go situation in the Teamsters Union as a result of nationwide interest in the union's management under Beck. His election was blocked temporarily by a federal court order. At about the same time the union was expelled by AFL-CIO.

A compromise reached early in 1958 enabled him to fill the office of president under the supervision of three court-appointed monitors. It is this arrangement that has been terminated.

But it's never an upset when the favorite wins, and James R. Hoffa has become the favorite in all contests that he enters. The reason is plain.

It's because he has won all the contests he has entered. He has demonstrated his right to go into all contests as the favorite by winning the ones he had to win. And he has done this by the sheer strength of his position as leader of the country's largest union, backed up by a powerful organization.

Congressional investigations have not daunted him. The power of the federal government has not hampered him. The election of John F. Kennedy, whom he opposed and who has publicly excoriated him, has not daunted him.

Nothing succeeds like success and the success of James R. Hoffa is legendary.

FCC has authorized test of Pay-TV in Hartford, Conn., telecasting quality programs free from commercials. It will cost fans as high as $3.50 a show but that's cheap if you get a guarantee you will see no pro wrestlers, private eyes or chimpanzees riding bicycles. (If a frontier town marshal comes through, you'll know your set is leaking.)

This will also be true if you encounter a Laurel & Hardy rerun, a man being hunted by helicopter for stealing a butterd bun or four comedians on one show doing same routine.

A Pay-TV fan won't even know how Charlie Chan is doing, whether anybody has yet outsmarted Perry Mason or if they have stopped using the three platoon system of district attorneys on that show.

Broadway plays will be shown. This will be welcomed as giving folks a chance to see them without being stepped on through half of the opening act and without danger of having an usher pipe, "I'll have to see your seat stubs" half way through second. Also you can drink homemade orange juice and save big dough.

There is fear that if pay TV succeeds, free shows will deteriorate badly. People may get only Amos & Andy reruns, the right time twice a day and weather forecasts only from MEN instead of photogenic dolls whose personality appeal is so strong the audience can think of Winter Garden chorus while getting data on weather.

(Office optimist who is for pay TV says, "You've been put to sleep for free all these years) why object to being kept awake through a TV program even if it costs a little dough?")

What A Keyhole

Overtime Soars With The Rockets

By Victor Riesel

Some of the unionized craftsmen working on skies-scraping projects at Cape Canaveral and other missile and rocket-testing bases have been paid as much as $1,000 a week. Other construction workers have struggled along on $600-$800 weekly.

Victor Riesel

This is not the average wage — but investigators who have just returned from the Cape reported to Sen. John McClellan that the big pie-in-the-sky project wages warrant a national probe.

The $600 - $1,000 - a - week pay checks result from enforced overtime pay.

This runs from time and a half on some night shift work to double time on Sundays and holidays. On double-time days some construction workers can roll up almost $100 extra at their rates, the world's highest.

Pentagon demands for overtime work have been provoked by a truly endless series of strikes — some authorized, some wildcat, but all costly in time as well as money.

Since all rocket and missile experimentation and construction is geared to a target date — frequently affected by the Soviet's cold war propaganda tactics — our armed forces call in their construction workers sometimes for almost round-the-clock activity after the stoppages.

INVOLVED have been the highest paid of the best-paid construction craftsmen. But even the semi-skilled walk away with big pay checks after a stoppage. The unions most frequently involved have been the electrical brotherhood, the pipe fitters, the iron workers, the carpenters and the hod carriers and common laborers.

Sen. McClellan was also angered by what himself learned at the Cape during a recent two-day visit and he plans to return with the sheaf of reports just handed him.

He and some of his Government Operations Committee, including Sen. Karl Mundt, wants to know the cause of the numerous walkouts, wholesale sick reports and wildcats.

The senators and their investigators know the effect of the stoppages, which have eaten into the Pentagon appropriation.

Tens of millions of dollars have been spent in enforced overtime pay and on the "cleaning up" operations after these strikes.

This overtime and mopping-up cost is part of the $100 million in extra bills which the missile construction program is now expected to cost above the original estimate.

THE COMMITTEE, knowing the effect, now wants to know the cause. As of now, open hearings, at which high Pentagon, industrial and union brass will testify, probably will start the first week in April.

What the senators want to know is — why have there been over 125 strikes at just four major bases since July 1, 1959? These have cost well over 100,000 man days. To make this up takes a lot of overtime.

The air bases hardest and most frequently hit are the Canaveral and Patrick Air Force complex; and the ballistic missile launching pads and testing sites at Vandenberg in California, Warren in Wyoming and Offutt in Nebraska.

Typical are three strikes at the Canaveral complex which over some months slowed up work on the Titan missile and the Centaur and Saturn rockets.

During one construction workers' strike some carpenters went out at dawn. Five hours later nearly 1,000 members of other unions had respected the pickets. Work was either slowed or entirely stopped for 12 days, depending where you looked.

NOT LONG after that hundreds again obeyed a picket line of a handful of electricians and pipe fitters who objected to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's bringing in some of its own technicians.

Another time, toward year end a few iron workers delayed work for almost a week when they walked out in protest against the awarding of a tiny ($25,000) contract to a northern firm with which they had been feuding.

There have also been scores of strikes resulting from one union's objecting to certain work being given to members of another union.

Now the Senate will look into just how the local "little" unions and their virtually unknown officials have developed such power —and why this costs the people (including other union members, of course) so much in defense expenditures.

Cotton Corners

By Truman Twill

Dear Newphew: Why do you keep asking me why politicians give you the willies? You might as well ask me why pork upsets your stomach.

Me, I have no trouble with pork or politicians. I can take 'em, or I can let 'em alone. They don't bother me. I like them, as a matter of fact.

Your trouble is that you have an allergy. Something has gone haywire in your own makeup that crosses you up. If you had a choice, you would like to think of pork and politicians as a pleasant side of life, the same as I would like to enjoy roses if it weren't for my rose fever.

As to politicians, I am increasingly sure of one thing. They are misunderstood. Their role in our affairs is misunderstood.

They reflect all the things we are, and that is one reason we dislike them. They become personalized symbols of everything good and bad about our society.

I shall never forget that Adolf Hitler built his career of plunder, brutality and murder on the mass-character of the German people. It is hard to believe now, and it was harder to believe then, but the German people liked what they saw in Hitler.

The Cuban people like what they see in Castro. Many Americans liked what they saw in Huey Long. Many liked what they saw in Joe McCarthy. And 'let's not forget that Gov. Jimmie Davis of Louisiana is beloved by members of the White Citizens Council down South and that every politician whose fame has spread is the spokesman for people who hang on his words.

That, I'd suppose, is what makes you queasy. You hate to admit the reality of the horror the bad politicians reflect. But there's always the other kind — the ones who reflect what is good, noble and admirable.

Keep your eye on them, too. That's the kind I tried to be when I served a term as township trustee — good, noble and admirable. That was me. But there was a catch to it.

I took myself so seriously in my good, noble and admirable role that I lost touch with my constituents, who were none of these things. They were sore about the upkeep of the roads and the tottery condition of the bridges. They were on their ear about ditch problems we were having at that time.

Consequently, I was in power for only one term, because what my constituents wanted me to reflect was annoyance, cupidity, thirst for vegeance and desire to get something for nothing. I overestimated their nobility.

That's the way it goes.

Overestimating people is a good way to get elected the first time, but it's not a good way to stay elected. Voters like to be buttered up. They love to have their seamy sides rubbed. I learned a lot about politics in a hurry when I was a politician.

So remember that when you look at these people it's like looking into a mirror and seeing the "body politic" reflected. It's not always pretty, but don't cringe. It's real. Just remember to keep looking, though.

I remember hearing years ago about the mayor of a town who was so popular it was impossible to win against him. His opponent always conceded as soon as the polls closed. Finally, the mayor died in office at a ripe old age. He had been the perfect reflection of everything his community wanted him to be.

If I won't be accused of undue prejudice, that's why Dwight Eisenhower could have been re-elected last November. He was the perfect reflection of a top-heavy majority of his countrymen. Even the ones opposed to him, because he was in their way, had to concede he was the all-American political symbol — the man everybody would like to be.

You give a little more thought to the politicians who don't give you the willies. And accept our regards as usual.

The School Aid Issue

By David Lawrence

Refund Offered As Answer To Problem

President Kennedy has sought to clarify the paradox referred to in these dispatches at the time he submitted to Congress his message on education. He called then for federal aid to college students, irrespective of whether they attended religious institutions but did not favor such aid to children attending parochial schools at the elementary and secondary levels.

David Lawrence

The President, in his latest press conference, left the door wide open for Congress—so far as constitutional questions are concerned—to extend federal aid to parents who do not send their children to public elementary schools but who favor their attendance at private or parochial schools.

The President clarified the issues when in answer to a question he said:

"Well, the Constitution clearly prohibits aid to the school, the parochial school. There is no doubt about that. The Everson case, which is probably the most celebrated case, provided only, by a 5-4 decision, was it possible for a local community to provide bus rides to non-public school children but all through the majority and minority statements on that particular question there was a very clear prohibition against aid to the school direct.

"The Supreme Court made its decision in the Everson case by determining that the aid was to the child, not to the school.

"Aid to the school is—there isn't any room for debate on that subject. It is prohibited by the Constitution, and the Supreme Court has made that very clear. Therefore, there would be no possibility of our recommending it."

THE PRESIDENT didn't discuss the question of how aid might be given to the parents of the younger students in much the same way as it is given to the students of college age. In fact, in answer to another question, Mr. Kennedy said:

"The aid that we have recommended to colleges is in a different form. We are aiding the student in the same way the GI Bill of Rights aided the student.

"The scholarships are given to the students who have particular talents and they can go to the college they want. In that case it is aid to the student, not to the school or college and, therefore, not to a particular religious group.

"That is the distinction between them, except in the case of aid to medical schools, and that has been done for a number of years because that is a particular kind of technical assistance. The constitutional question has not arisen on that matter."

What the President is really pointing out could be called a distinction without a difference. Opponents of federal aid to any students who would use the money for tuition in church schools are logically calling, in effect, for a repeal of the GI Bill of Rights and all forms of scholarships that pay for education in any non-public institutions.

Defenders of the existing policies of aid at the college level are logical in insisting that, if it is consitutional to extend such aid with federal funds—even if the money goes to religious colleges or private institutions—then it is also lawful to extend such aid to the parents of those children of elementary and high school age who are enrolled in parochial schools.

THE SUPREME COURT of the United States in the Everson case in February, 1947, referring to fire and police protection, bus transportation and similar services to all schools, said:

"Of course, cutting off church schools from these services, so separate and so indisputably marked off from the religious function, would make it far more difficult for the schools to operate but such is obviously not the purpose of the First Amendment.

"That amendment requires the state to be a neutral in its relations with groups of religious believers and non-believers; it does not require the state to be their adversary. State power is no more to be used so as to handicap religions, than it is to favor them."

By the same token, if the federal government extends aid to public school children, as is being suggested, and denies such aid to children who go to parochial or other private schools, then it can be accused of handicapping the religious education which is voluntarily sought by parents for their children in order to supplement the regular course of studies.

To understand the problem, it can well be imagined what a financial burden in higher taxes for the community would be imposed if parents of children now attending private and parochial schools were suddenly to decide to send them all to public schools.

The states would have to pay heavily every year to take care of the nearly seven million children now attending private and parochial schools. Many extra teachers would have to be hired and new buildings erected.

CERTAINLY the extent to which the taxpayers today are being relieved of this extra burden in the community involves sums many times larger than the federal assistance that might be granted to those parents of children of elementary- and secondary school age who desire to send them to religious schools but at the same time cannot afford the double burden they are carrying today.

Perhaps the way out is to refund to such parents certain amounts out of their tax payments, which could then be used for education in private schools. This would not be direct aid to the school or educational institution but to the students themselves.

Letters To The Editor

Citizens of East Liverpool: I feel that you should be brought to light on a serious violation that has been and is being committed 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, every year.

That is overloading of heavy trailer trucks passing through East Liverpool.

I know what I am talking about because I drove them 22 years and was forced to haul overloads. When I rebelled I was fired under false charges while my own union upheld the company I worked for. The union told me, quote, "What the h— do you care how much they're overloaded as long as you're getting paid for it!"

As you know you are tagged for a few minutes for over parking with a fine of $1. You are paying a city income tax, but you are also paying for the damage done by these seriously overloaded trucks which go through East Liverpool unmolested in violation of hundreds of dollars each. They could have easily loaded their cargo legally and still had a good profit.

For example, E. 3rd St. and Market St. had to be resurfaced. Who foots the bill, the trucking companies or we the citizens?

No doubt there will be some truck owners who will probably reply that the trucks pay their way, but figures don't lie. But they still will try to twist them in their favor.

Our weight laws are plenty liberal, but it would not matter how high they placed the load limit there are always companies who try to come through illegally overloaded and let the innocent public pay while they reap the profits.

190 Arrested In Protest To Segregation

By The Associated Press

Weeks of Negro demonstrations protesting segregation came to a climax at Columbia, S.C., in a hymn-singing march on the statehouse during which 190 persons were arrested, all but one of them Negroes.

All of the demonstrators, including one white youth and a field secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, were charged with breach of the peace.

City and county jails held 159 of the marchers today. Bond of $50 each was posted for 31 others Thursday night.

The students marched in small groups to the statehouse, were warned not to demonstrate, and then were arrested when they continued to advance.

The 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals at St. Louis, Mo., ordered the school board at Little Rock, Ark., to speed desegregation of that city's schools, but did not set a timetable.

While conceding the board members were public spirited citizens working under adverse conditions, the court found the board "was motivated and governed by racial considerations" in deciding on school assignments for Negroes.

The board was directed to apply the Arkansas pupil placement law objectively and "without discrimination based on race or color."

Other developments:

Chattanooga, Tenn. — Nine Negro stand-in demonstrators were arrested on disorderly conduct charges when they blocked a sidewalk, police said.

Lynchburg, Va.—Six jailed Negro students continued a hunger strike they started Tuesday because they said they were not allowed textbooks.

$30 Million Suit Against UMW's Fund Dismissed

CHATTANOOGA (AP) — A $30 million anti-trust suit has been dismissed against the United Mine Workers welfare fund. U.S. District Judge Leslie R. Darr ruled that the fund, being a trust, cannot be reached for damages.

Darr's decision Thursday is the latest in a series of developments since the suit was filed Jan. 6 by 16 small coal companies in southeast Tennessee.

In addition to the union's fund, the companies named as defendants the union itself, the Tennessee Valley Authority, the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, West Kentucky Coal Company and its chairman, Cyrus Eaton, of Cleveland, Ohio.

The suit alleged the defendants conspired to control production and price of all coal in the southern Appalachians.

Darr dismissed the suit as it pertains to the trustees for the fund, former UMW President John L. Lewis, Henry G. Schmidt and Josephine Roche.

He ruled the fund is not, as the coal companies claim, an unincorporated association or organization.

In other recent developments in the case:

obtain various readings and perform other routine tasks while on the 11 p.m.-7 a.m. shift the night of Feb. 1-2.

Huddlestun testified he sat in his parked car at the rear of Westgate School from 11:15 p.m. until about 2:15 a.m. so that he could observe Beatty's performance. It would be necessary for Beatty to leave the main control building and go to other structures to perform the inspections and check the readings with one exception, Huddlestun explained.

Beatty should have taken "composite samples" for laboratory examination at 11:30 and 1:30, but he failed to do so, Huddlestun said. He was required to obtain a reading at midnight on maximum and minimum air temperatures for the preceding 24 hours, but he took the reading instead at 11:30 p.m. Huddlestun testified. He also charged that Beatty failed to make routine inspections of pumps and motors during the three-hour period he was observed.

"He went out of the building around 11:30 to read the electric meter and the maximum and minimum temperatures and that's the last I saw of him," Huddlestun said. "He has to go outside for any reading except the raw sewage flow meter. It's in the main building."

The periodic sewage samples are required by the State Health Board to help it check on the plant's efficiency, Huddlestun said. Periodic readings are required on consumption of electricity and natural gas and generation of sludge gas because sudden changes can prove an indication of trouble, he added.

Copenhaver testified briefly, explaining that Beatty was confronted with the charges in his office Feb. 3 in the presence of Huddlestun and "acknowledged that the readings and inspections were not made."

"He said others were doing the same thing, but he wouldn't name any names," the directors said.

In his defense, Beatty acknowledged that he failed to obtain the periodic sewage sample at 11:30.

He said he obtained all the required midnight readings on temperatures, sludge gas, natural gas and electrical consumption, but made his rounds at 11:30 — a half hour early. He said he obtained the next sewage sample, but about 35 minutes later than required by the schedule. It was scheduled to be taken at 1:30. He said he made periodic inspections of pumps and motors on three occasions later in his shift.

Beatty blamed illness for failure to perform part of his job on schedule. On the night in question, his car broke down and he was required to walk to work through bitter cold from his home in Fisher Park, he said. In addition, he said, he was suffering from a severe chest cold, which caused him to cough every time he ventured into the open air.

In his closing argument, the solicitor declared Beatty was responsible for proper operation of a $1,250,000 plant. He said Beatty should be treated as any other public utility worker who failed to perform his duties according to rules.

McDonald argued the facts did not justify a dismissal, but he said he believed "disciplinary action is indicated."

The commission heard the case from 3 until 5:30 p.m. Then it adjourned until 8, when the written opinion was drafted.

190 Arrested In Protest To Segregation

By The Associated Press

Weeks of Negro demonstrations protesting segregation came to a climax at Columbia, S.C., in a hymn-singing march on the statehouse during which 190 persons were arrested, all but one of them Negroes.

All of the demonstrators, including one white youth and a field secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, were charged with breach of the peace.

City and county jails held 159 of the marchers today. Bond of $50 each was posted for 31 others Thursday night.

The students marched in small groups to the statehouse, were warned not to demonstrate, and then were arrested when they continued to advance.

The 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals at St. Louis, Mo., ordered the school board at Little Rock, Ark., to speed desegregation of that city's schools, but did not set a timetable.

While conceding the board members were public spirited citizens working under adverse conditions, the court found the board "was motivated and governed by racial considerations" in deciding on school assignments for Negroes.

The board was directed to apply the Arkansas pupil placement law objectively and "without discrimination based on race or color."

Other developments:

Chattanooga, Tenn. — Nine Negro stand-in demonstrators were arrested on disorderly conduct charges when they blocked a sidewalk, police said.

Lynchburg, Va.—Six jailed Negro students continued a hunger strike they started Tuesday because they said they were not allowed textbooks.

$30 Million Suit Against UMW's Fund Dismissed

CHATTANOOGA (AP) — A $30 million anti-trust suit has been dismissed against the United Mine Workers welfare fund. U.S. District Judge Leslie R. Darr ruled that the fund, being a trust, cannot be reached for damages.

Darr's decision Thursday is the latest in a series of developments since the suit was filed Jan. 6 by 16 small coal companies in southeast Tennessee.

In addition to the union's fund, the companies named as defendants the union itself, the Tennessee Valley Authority, the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, West Kentucky Coal Company and its chairman, Cyrus Eaton, of Cleveland, Ohio.

The suit alleged the defendants conspired to control production and price of all coal in the southern Appalachians.

Darr dismissed the suit as it pertains to the trustees for the fund, former UMW President John L. Lewis, Henry G. Schmidt and Josephine Roche.

He ruled the fund is not, as the coal companies claim, an unincorporated association or organization.

In other recent developments in the case:

Darr said that Eaton cannot be forced to answer the suit, as it stands, unless he voluntarily comes to Tennessee or the suit is also filed in Cleveland.

Federal Court Order

Little Rock Told To Speed Up Integration In Schools

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—The Little Rock School Board, whose moderate members thought racial integration was progressing peacefully in this once strife-torn city, now faces an integration speedup order from a federal court.

What the order will mean is not yet clear. But for the first time in 18 months, Little Rock is aware that its integration troubles are still very real.

The 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis ruled Thursday that the school board would have to speed up integration, but it did not set up a time table, and it significantly did not throw out the Arkansas Pupil Placement law.

The placement law provides that school boards may assign students to various schools for a number of reasons, including aptitude and mental attitude, but not race.

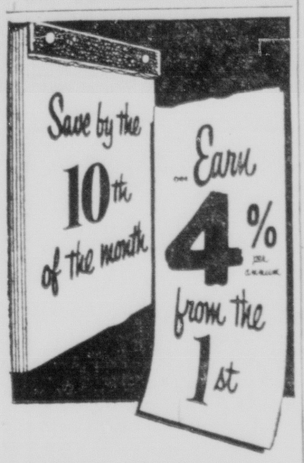

The court said that the board is using the law as a device to hold integration to a token basis. The law was upheld by the U.S. Supreme Court, which warned that it must be used in good faith.

Federal Judge John E. Miller of Fort Smith, Ark., ruled last Sept. 2 that the board was using the plan in good faith and was progressing satisfactorily with integration. But the 14 Negro students who brought suit against the law appealed to the St. Louis court, and Thursday's decision was the result.

The appeals court also returned jurisdiction in the case to Miller, who had rejected it.

Everett Tucker Jr., president of the Little Rock School Board, said he was encouraged by the court's decision because it did not invalidate the placement law.

Tucker said the ruling was based on the board's 1959 pupil assignments, and not on the 1960 ones.

Thai Soldiers Scan Hills For 'Irregulars'

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP)—Thai government troops today hunted Nationalist Chinese irregulars roaming the mountainous jungles of Southeast Asia.

The guerrillas have caught the United States in a diplomatic dispute.

The irregulars—reportedly numbering about 1,000 in Thailand alone—are remnants of Chiang Kai-shek's troops that spilled over China's southern borders after the Communists took over the mainland in 1949. Many settled down in villages of Northern Burma, some to a life of banditry. The Thais and Burmese now are trying to disarm them.

Burma, lying north of Thailand, has also attempted to evict the troops and has made strong protests to Chiang's Nationalist Chinese government on Formosa.

Last month thousands of Burmese rioted in front of the U. S. Embassy after a U. S.-built plane was shot down and the Burmese claimed it had a Chinese crew and was carrying modern U. S. arms, presumably funneled from Formosa.

The United States promised to investigate and the Nationalists denied supplying the irregulars.

In Washington, the United States officially expressed its concern to the Nationalist Chinese Embassy about the irregulars in Burma. The situation came up in the United Nations in 1953 and 1954, and the United States helped fly out several thousand of the irregulars at that time. Since then, Washington sources said, U. S. concern has been made clear a number of times.

Under pressure in Burma, some of the guerrillas headed into Thailand recently. About 5,000 have also been reported in Laos, which is studying ways to disarm them while engaged meanwhile in a civil war against pro-Communists.

Thursday night the Thai government, a staunch ally of the United States, reported it had dispatched 8,000 troops to northern Chiengmai Province. If the Chinese do not surrender, the government said, "The Thai forces will have to take forceful action."

Soap was discovered accidentally by the ancients when grease from the sacrifices of animals upon altars seeped through and mixed with the wood ashes of the altar logs.

Professional Division

Second Unit Begins Work In Red Cross Fund Appeal

The Professional Division in the Red Cross fund drive took to the field today, seeking contributions from local doctors, dentists, attorneys, ministers, hospital staffs and others in various professional vocations.

Some 80 individuals may be contacted by the 16 volunteer workers in the division's six units. Ralph Finley, himself a former campaign chairman, is directing the work of the group, which has a divisional quota of $1,800.

This division is the second to begin active solicitation. The Advance Gifts Division, headed by Mrs. J. Donald Thompson, began its canvass of some 200 larger contributors on Feb. 14. First report from this division was made at Wednesday's "kickoff" meeting for campaign leaders at the Travelers Hotel. Mrs. Thompson reported $5,820 pledged toward a division quota of $6,000. Drive officials termed the response "excellent" and predicted" a highly successful campaign". The over-all goal is $15,787.

In addition to his activities in previous Red Cross drives, Finley is known for his interest in the Junior Chamber of Commerce's many projects. He is a life member of the organization and has received their Distinguished Service Award. Finley serves on the Board of Trustees of the Community Fund Association, is a member of the Rotary Club and St. Stephen's Episcopal Church. In business life he is secretary-treasurer of the Smith & Phillips Co. and secretary of the Bayley Envelope Co.

Six units are included in the Professional Division: Physicians: Mrs. Fred Banfield, captain; Dentists: Mrs. Arthur Turner, captain, and Mrs. William Sulkes, Mrs. R. Jay Kinsey, Mrs. Norman Birnbaum; Osteopaths and Chiropractors: Mrs. Charles Waggoner, captain, and Mrs. James D. Bennett Jr.; Hospitals: Miss Lena Palmisano, captain; Ministers and Funeral Directors: The Rev. John Mostoller, captain; Attorneys: Mrs. Francis Lang, captain, and Mrs. Louis Tobin, Mrs. Paul Tobin, Mrs. W. E. Dunlap, Mrs. W. H. Vodrey, and Mrs. Donald E. Smith.

Harry Martin, second assistant campaign chairman, also aids the Professional Division, serving in an advisory capacity.

Trio Held Under Bond For Burglary Of Home

EAST PALESTINE — Bonds were set in County Court Thursday for two Youngstown men and a New Springfield woman charged with breaking and entering an inhabited home in the night season.

Preliminary hearing was set for next Thursday at 1:30 p.m. before County Judge Herbert Arfman.

Bond of $1,500 was set for Marshall Petrucci, 24, and $2,500 each for Charles Cooper, 21, and Mary Walker, 20. They posted the security and were released.

The men were arrested by Youngstown police when they couldn't explain where they got a 21-inch television set and several other articles found in the rear of their car. The girl allegedly opened the lock on the bathroom window so the men could enter the home of Lawrence Wolfgang on the Lower Elkton Rd. Saturday night when the television set was taken.

Couple Sues Railroad For $24,000 In Crash

Suits claiming personal injuries and asking damages of $24,000 were filed in Common Pleas Court Thursday by an East Liverpool couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Halpate, 414 Walnut St., named the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. as defendants in two suits.

Mrs. Dorothy Halpate asks $10,000 for her injuries and Halpate $10,000 for injuries and $4,000 damages to his car.

Their car struck a freight train that had stopped on the Silvers Switch crossing above Wellsville March 2, 1958, and the couple charges the trainmen did not put out flares although the train blocked Route 7.

Gets Hospital Release

CINCINNATI (AP) — Charles Gilliam, 68, committed to Lima State Hospital eight years ago after the shooting death of his wife, has been released as cured, Sheriff Clyde Dericks reported Thursday. The sheriff said Gilliam had been indicted on a murder charge before he was committed and trial on the charge may start soon. Gilliam was accused of killing his wife Dec. 12, 1952 at their rural Clermont County home.

Bill Proposes Cent Boost In Cigarette Tax

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — A proposal to raise $2 million in new revenue by boosting the state's cigarette tax from five to six cents a pack for the next year came up for a West Virginia House vote today.

In the form in which the Senate-passed bill was moved up to passage level in the House, it would simply extend the five-cent rate for another fiscal year. Without legislation, the tax would drop to four cents after June 30.

But before voting today on the bill itself, the House was to act on a pending Finance Committee amendment. This not only would extend the expiring cent for another year but would put another cent of tax on top of that for the same period.

The cigarette tax hike was not among the tax measures Gov. Barron recommended for financing his legislative program. But the House Democratic leadership needs this $2 million in added revenue—and a good bit more—if it is to carry out its determination to go beyond the original Barron program's $1.5 million for public school teachers.

Out on the House floor now is a teacher pay bill which would cost an estimated $6.5 million. It would give public school teachers a raise of $20 a month across the board and two weeks of added yearly employment. The Finance Committee sent the bill to the floor yesterday with passage recommended.

The Senate had up for passage today a House-approved bill to establish a nine-member West Virginia Human Rights Commission. It is a considerably diluted version of the bill originally proposed by Gov. Barron.

Before it passed the House last month, the bill was amended to take away the proposed commission's subpoena and investigate powers. And the House provided further that the commission's efforts toward reducing discrimination against racial, religious and ethnic groups should be limited to the fields of employment and public accommodations.

Federal Court Order

Little Rock Told To Speed Up Integration In Schools

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—The Little Rock School Board, whose moderate members thought racial integration was progressing peacefully in this once strife-torn city, now faces an integration speedup order from a federal court.

What the order will mean is not yet clear. But for the first time in 18 months, Little Rock is aware that its integration troubles are still very real.

The 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis ruled Thursday that the school board would have to speed up integration, but it did not set up a time table, and it significantly did not throw out the Arkansas Pupil Placement law.

The placement law provides that school boards may assign students to various schools for a number of reasons, including aptitude and mental attitude, but not race.

The court said that the board is using the law as a device to hold integration to a token basis. The law was upheld by the U.S. Supreme Court, which warned that it must be used in good faith.

Federal Judge John E. Miller of Fort Smith, Ark., ruled last Sept. 2 that the board was using the plan in good faith and was progressing satisfactorily with integration. But the 14 Negro students who brought suit against the law appealed to the St. Louis court, and Thursday's decision was the result.

The appeals court also returned jurisdiction in the case to Miller, who had rejected it.

Everett Tucker Jr., president of the Little Rock School Board, said he was encouraged by the court's decision because it did not invalidate the placement law.

Tucker said the ruling was based on the board's 1959 pupil assignments, and not on the 1960 ones.

Thai Soldiers Scan Hills For 'Irregulars'

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP)—Thai government troops today hunted Nationalist Chinese irregulars roaming the mountainous jungles of Southeast Asia.

The guerrillas have caught the United States in a diplomatic dispute.

The irregulars—reportedly numbering about 1,000 in Thailand alone—are remnants of Chiang Kai-shek's troops that spilled over China's southern borders after the Communists took over the mainland in 1949. Many settled down in villages of Northern Burma, some to a life of banditry. The Thais and Burmese now are trying to disarm them.

Burma, lying north of Thailand, has also attempted to evict the troops and has made strong protests to Chiang's Nationalist Chinese government on Formosa.

Last month thousands of Burmese rioted in front of the U. S. Embassy after a U. S.-built plane was shot down and the Burmese claimed it had a Chinese crew and was carrying modern U. S. arms, presumably funneled from Formosa.

The United States promised to investigate and the Nationalists denied supplying the irregulars.

In Washington, the United States officially expressed its concern to the Nationalist Chinese Embassy about the irregulars in Burma. The situation came up in the United Nations in 1953 and 1954, and the United States helped fly out several thousand of the irregulars at that time. Since then, Washington sources said, U. S. concern has been made clear a number of times.

Under pressure in Burma, some of the guerrillas headed into Thailand recently. About 5,000 have also been reported in Laos, which is studying ways to disarm them while engaged meanwhile in a civil war against pro-Communists.

Thursday night the Thai government, a staunch ally of the United States, reported it had dispatched 8,000 troops to northern Chiengmai Province. If the Chinese do not surrender, the government said, "The Thai forces will have to take forceful action."

Soap was discovered accidentally by the ancients when grease from the sacrifices of animals upon altars seeped through and mixed with the wood ashes of the altar logs.

Professional Division

Second Unit Begins Work In Red Cross Fund Appeal

The Professional Division in the Red Cross fund drive took to the field today, seeking contributions from local doctors, dentists, attorneys, ministers, hospital staffs and others in various professional vocations.

Some 80 individuals may be contacted by the 16 volunteer workers in the division's six units. Ralph Finley, himself a former campaign chairman, is directing the work of the group, which has a divisional quota of $1,800.

This division is the second to begin active solicitation. The Advance Gifts Division, headed by Mrs. J. Donald Thompson, began its canvass of some 200 larger contributors on Feb. 14. First report from this division was made at Wednesday's "kickoff" meeting for campaign leaders at the Travelers Hotel. Mrs. Thompson reported $5,820 pledged toward a division quota of $6,000. Drive officials termed the response "excellent" and predicted" a highly successful campaign". The over-all goal is $15,787.

In addition to his activities in previous Red Cross drives, Finley is known for his interest in the Junior Chamber of Commerce's many projects. He is a life member of the organization and has received their Distinguished Service Award. Finley serves on the Board of Trustees of the Community Fund Association, is a member of the Rotary Club and St. Stephen's Episcopal Church. In business life he is secretary-treasurer of the Smith & Phillips Co. and secretary of the Bayley Envelope Co.

Six units are included in the Professional Division: Physicians: Mrs. Fred Banfield, captain; Dentists: Mrs. Arthur Turner, captain, and Mrs. William Sulkes, Mrs. R. Jay Kinsey, Mrs. Norman Birnbaum; Osteopaths and Chiropractors: Mrs. Charles Waggoner, captain, and Mrs. James D. Bennett Jr.; Hospitals: Miss Lena Palmisano, captain; Ministers and Funeral Directors: The Rev. John Mostoller, captain; Attorneys: Mrs. Francis Lang, captain, and Mrs. Louis Tobin, Mrs. Paul Tobin, Mrs. W. E. Dunlap, Mrs. W. H. Vodrey, and Mrs. Donald E. Smith.

Harry Martin, second assistant campaign chairman, also aids the Professional Division, serving in an advisory capacity.

Trio Held Under Bond For Burglary Of Home

EAST PALESTINE — Bonds were set in County Court Thursday for two Youngstown men and a New Springfield woman charged with breaking and entering an inhabited home in the night season.

Preliminary hearing was set for next Thursday at 1:30 p.m. before County Judge Herbert Arfman.

Bond of $1,500 was set for Marshall Petrucci, 24, and $2,500 each for Charles Cooper, 21, and Mary Walker, 20. They posted the security and were released.

The men were arrested by Youngstown police when they couldn't explain where they got a 21-inch television set and several other articles found in the rear of their car. The girl allegedly opened the lock on the bathroom window so the men could enter the home of Lawrence Wolfgang on the Lower Elkton Rd. Saturday night when the television set was taken.

Couple Sues Railroad For $24,000 In Crash

Suits claiming personal injuries and asking damages of $24,000 were filed in Common Pleas Court Thursday by an East Liverpool couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Halpate, 414 Walnut St., named the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. as defendants in two suits.

Mrs. Dorothy Halpate asks $10,000 for her injuries and Halpate $10,000 for injuries and $4,000 damages to his car.

Their car struck a freight train that had stopped on the Silvers Switch crossing above Wellsville March 2, 1958, and the couple charges the trainmen did not put out flares although the train blocked Route 7.

Gets Hospital Release

CINCINNATI (AP) — Charles Gilliam, 68, committed to Lima State Hospital eight years ago after the shooting death of his wife, has been released as cured, Sheriff Clyde Dericks reported Thursday. The sheriff said Gilliam had been indicted on a murder charge before he was committed and trial on the charge may start soon. Gilliam was accused of killing his wife Dec. 12, 1952 at their rural Clermont County home.

Bill Proposes Cent Boost In Cigarette Tax

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — A proposal to raise $2 million in new revenue by boosting the state's cigarette tax from five to six cents a pack for the next year came up for a West Virginia House vote today.

In the form in which the Senate-passed bill was moved up to passage level in the House, it would simply extend the five-cent rate for another fiscal year. Without legislation, the tax would drop to four cents after June 30.

But before voting today on the bill itself, the House was to act on a pending Finance Committee amendment. This not only would extend the expiring cent for another year but would put another cent of tax on top of that for the same period.

The cigarette tax hike was not among the tax measures Gov. Barron recommended for financing his legislative program. But the House Democratic leadership needs this $2 million in added revenue—and a good bit more—if it is to carry out its determination to go beyond the original Barron program's $1.5 million for public school teachers.

Out on the House floor now is a teacher pay bill which would cost an estimated $6.5 million. It would give public school teachers a raise of $20 a month across the board and two weeks of added yearly employment. The Finance Committee sent the bill to the floor yesterday with passage recommended.

The Senate had up for passage today a House-approved bill to establish a nine-member West Virginia Human Rights Commission. It is a considerably diluted version of the bill originally proposed by Gov. Barron.

Before it passed the House last month, the bill was amended to take away the proposed commission's subpoena and investigate powers. And the House provided further that the commission's efforts toward reducing discrimination against racial, religious and ethnic groups should be limited to the fields of employment and public accommodations.

Loss Of $1,000 Set For Blaze

Flames, ignited by an overheated coal furnace, caused considerable damage to the interior of a five-room frame home on the Little Blue Rd. between Lawrenceville and Hookstown this morning about 9.

The home of Fred Cheuvront near the Pennsylvania line was damaged by the $1,000 blaze fought by Lawrenceville and Chester firemen.

Firemen said the fire was caused by the overheated furnace in the basement, and spread up through the walls to the first floor of the building, located about 400 yards up a hillside from the roadway.

Lawrenceville firemen were called about 9, responding with 15 men, and Chester firemen were asked to help about 9:30.

The Chester department supplied water when it was learned additional men were not needed. It was feared a small wooden bridge over a creek near the home would not support the heavier Chester truck.

Cheuvront, retired, smelled smoke and tried to extinguish the blaze with water from an outside pump. Firemen had to knock holes through interior walls to get at the blaze and there was considerable smoke and water damage.

Fire Chief Guy Micheals of Lawrenceville estimated damage at between $800 and $1,000.

Notebooks Tossed From Stolen Auto

Beaver County authorities are searching for two leather-bound notebooks discarded at the Midland dump in Cow Hollow by a 14-year-old Beaver youth shortly before the stolen car he was driving crashed into a bridge abutment at Barclay's Crossing on Route 68 while being pursued by Vanport police.

The father of the youth, one of two being held at Allencrest following the two-day spree, said a reward is being offered for the loose-leaf notebooks containing the names of prospective customers and notes on some machinery owned by a Euclid man. Other property thrown from the car was recovered at the dump, authorities said.

The spree started Tuesday when the pair stole a car in Beaver, escaped from the pursuing owner, and drove to Beaver Falls where the 17-year-old accosted a woman and attempted to grab her purse. She was hospitalized with a hip injury received when thrown to the ground, police said.

After driving away from a Chippewa Township service station without paying for 16 gallons of gas, the two went to Erie where they abandoned the Beaver car and each stole autos.

While being pursued by Erie police, the 14-year-old ran a roadblock at Girard, Pa., but the 17-year-old fled on foot after ditching his car. He was captured Wednesday morning after an all-night search.

The other teen-ager drove to Cleveland, stole the Euclid man's car and returned to Beaver County.

The Coleman boy is 4-feet-8, weighs 95 and has light brown hair and blue eyes. He was wearing a white hat, dark blue trousers, a green leather jacket and black oxfords.

Farm Prices Boom Halts

WASHINGTON (AP) — A prolonged boom in farm land prices has come to a halt.

An Agriculture Department report on the farm real estate market said today land values toward the close of 1960 were at the same level as last July 1. There had been a steady upward trend in market values of land since 1941, with only two minor interruptions.

Values leveled off with a 250 per cent increase over those prevailing at the start of 1941.

A major factor in halting the upturn, the report said, was uncertainty regarding future federal farm programs.

Another factor was recent increases in interest rates on land mortgages. This discouraged some prospective buyers.

The report said that there were moderate increases in land prices in 11 states during the latter half of 1960, but these were offset by generally larger declines in several states in the corn belt and a few states elsewhere. Iowa led with a dip of 5 per cent, followed by Illinois and Ohio with 3 per cent.

Firemen To Seek Funds For Truck

An appeal for contributions to meet a payment on the Lawrenceville volunteer fire department's truck is being pushed by the firemen.

Clem Barmer, treasurer, reported at a meeting Thursday night some $800 is needed to meet a $2,500 payment due March 28.

Jack Stover reported he mailed letters to business establishments in the area, requesting donations.

Perry Wright was named vice president, succeeding Okey Leaisure, who replaced Robert Laughlin when the latter resigned as president recently.

Plans were made for a public fish fry March 10 at the fire station. It was reported tickets for amusement rides at the annual firemen's carnival June 6-10 are now available from firemen.

Leaisure, president, was in charge. The next meeting is March 16.

Hearing Is Continued For Tavern Operator

WEIRTON — Judge Norman Ferrari Jr. this morning continued until Monday at 9 a.m. a hearing in Municipal Court for James F. Gaston, 49, of New Cumberland R. D. 1, who was arrested Wednesday on a charge of permitting the sale of alcoholic liquor.

Loss Of $1,000 Set For Blaze

Flames, ignited by an overheated coal furnace, caused considerable damage to the interior of a five-room frame home on the Little Blue Rd. between Lawrenceville and Hookstown this morning about 9.

The home of Fred Cheuvront near the Pennsylvania line was damaged by the $1,000 blaze fought by Lawrenceville and Chester firemen.

Firemen said the fire was caused by the overheated furnace in the basement, and spread up through the walls to the first floor of the building, located about 400 yards up a hillside from the roadway.

Lawrenceville firemen were called about 9, responding with 15 men, and Chester firemen were asked to help about 9:30.

The Chester department supplied water when it was learned additional men were not needed. It was feared a small wooden bridge over a creek near the home would not support the heavier Chester truck.

Cheuvront, retired, smelled smoke and tried to extinguish the blaze with water from an outside pump. Firemen had to knock holes through interior walls to get at the blaze and there was considerable smoke and water damage.

Fire Chief Guy Micheals of Lawrenceville estimated damage at between $800 and $1,000.

Notebooks Tossed From Stolen Auto

Beaver County authorities are searching for two leather-bound notebooks discarded at the Midland dump in Cow Hollow by a 14-year-old Beaver youth shortly before the stolen car he was driving crashed into a bridge abutment at Barclay's Crossing on Route 68 while being pursued by Vanport police.

The father of the youth, one of two being held at Allencrest following the two-day spree, said a reward is being offered for the loose-leaf notebooks containing the names of prospective customers and notes on some machinery owned by a Euclid man. Other property thrown from the car was recovered at the dump, authorities said.

The spree started Tuesday when the pair stole a car in Beaver, escaped from the pursuing owner, and drove to Beaver Falls where the 17-year-old accosted a woman and attempted to grab her purse. She was hospitalized with a hip injury received when thrown to the ground, police said.

After driving away from a Chippewa Township service station without paying for 16 gallons of gas, the two went to Erie where they abandoned the Beaver car and each stole autos.

While being pursued by Erie police, the 14-year-old ran a roadblock at Girard, Pa., but the 17-year-old fled on foot after ditching his car. He was captured Wednesday morning after an all-night search.

The other teen-ager drove to Cleveland, stole the Euclid man's car and returned to Beaver County.

Farm Prices Boom Halts

WASHINGTON (AP) — A prolonged boom in farm land prices has come to a halt.

An Agriculture Department report on the farm real estate market said today land values toward the close of 1960 were at the same level as last July 1. There had been a steady upward trend in market values of land since 1941, with only two minor interruptions.

Values leveled off with a 250 per cent increase over those prevailing at the start of 1941.

A major factor in halting the upturn, the report said, was uncertainty regarding future federal farm programs.

Another factor was recent increases in interest rates on land mortgages. This discouraged some prospective buyers.

The report said that there were moderate increases in land prices in 11 states during the latter half of 1960, but these were offset by generally larger declines in several states in the corn belt and a few states elsewhere. Iowa led with a dip of 5 per cent, followed by Illinois and Ohio with 3 per cent.

An appeal for contributions to meet a payment on the Lawrenceville volunteer fire department's truck is being pushed by the firemen.

Jack Stover reported he mailed letters to business establishments in the area, requesting donations.

Perry Wright was named vice president, succeeding Okey Leaisure, who replaced Robert Laughlin when the latter resigned as president recently.

Plans were made for a public fish fry March 10 at the fire station. It was reported tickets for amusement rides at the annual firemen's carnival June 6-10 are now available from firemen.

Leaisure, president, was in charge. The next meeting is March 16.

Jury Holding Killer's Fate

OTTAWA, Ill. (AP)—The fate of Chester (Rocky) Weger, accused of murdering three women in Starved Rock State Park, rests today with a circuit court jury that has deliberated five hours.

The state is seeking the death penalty.

After considering the evidence in two sessions Thursday, the seven women and five men jurors retired for the night.

Weger, 21, was a handyman and kitchen helper at the park lodge when the women were beaten to death in a canyon March 14.

His attorney, John A. McNamara, said in his final argument the state failed to support its charge of murder. He said Weger was the scapegoat of ambitions of William Dummett, a chief deputy sheriff who, the attorney said, wanted to advance himself.

State's Atty. Robert E. Richardson said the slaying "cries out for vengeance. This is one time where the biblical adage 'an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth' pertains."

Weger's trial was on a charge of murder in the death of Lillian Oetting, 50. He also is accused of murdering Frances Murphy, 47, and Mildred Linquist. All wives of Chicago business executives, they were on a brief holiday at the park when slain.

GE Charges Terror Reign In IUE Strike

CLEVELAND (AP) — General Electric Co., in a complaint filed before the National Labor Relations Board Thursday, charged officials of the International Union of Electrical Workers with conducting a "reign of terror" during a strike at the Bucyrus plant last October.

Henry F. Donahower, manager of employe and community relations for GE's Nela Park Division, filed the unfair labor practices action. Charged were David J. Fitzmaurice, president of District 7 of the IUE, and two members of Local 704 in Bucyrus.

GE alleged the Bucyrus plant was damaged and some employes who tried to go back to work were assaulted. Three international representatives also were named.

GE charged employes were coerced to remain away from work until an injunction was granted by the Crawford County Courts.

Commenting on the charges, Fitzmaurice, former head of Local 707 of GE employes here, said he thought the company was only trying to save face.

"It's taken them a long time to figure out what went on," he said. "It's the type of thing we expect of GE."

The action followed by one week the NLRB's dismissal of a decertification election petition by some employes asking that the IUE be dropped as the bargaining representative for Local 704.

Phillip Fusco, NLRB regional director, said he soon would assign one of his members to investigate the unfair labor practice charge.

Witness At Trial

WATERLOO, Iowa (AP)—Kenneth Hayes, manager of a Galion, Ohio, food store, was among witnesses Thursday at the kidnap-murder trial of Victor Harry Feguer, 25. Feguer is charged with the abduction and slaying of Dr. Harry Bartels, 34, of Dubuque, last July 11. He formerly worked at the Galion store and Hayes was among those testifying in the state's effort to establish that Fegur is sane.

Speeder Forfeits

LISBON — Robert Griffith, 22, of Cleveland forfeited a $15 appearance bond Thursday in County Judge James L. MacDonald's Court on charges of speeding. He was cited by the State Highway Patrol.

Changed Food Habits Work Wonders

What is the hardest part about reducing? One former overweight made this significant reply, "The wasted years it took me to make up my mind to change my food habits."

By Ida Jean Kain

If you are forever going on - and - off diets, why not make up your mind to change to a slimming pattern of eating? Get over the notion that food habits are unalterable and that you will always hanker for fattening fare. You will enjoy eating for weight control. Coming from the dietitian, these words may not carry conviction. Take it from a happy reducer ... She has nothing to "sell" you — except new hope.

"Ten years ago I weighed 204 pounds. I'm 5 feet 4½, so you see I was quite a rolly-poly.

"I COULDN'T wear the pretty clothes which I had always admired. Also I decided that if I didn't lose some weight I would probably harm my health.

"I started on a diet of my own choosing. For breakfast I ate one egg, a strip of crisp bacon, a piece of dry toast and black coffee.

"For lunch I had a meat sandwich, a glass of buttermilk and tomatoes or salad greens.

"I ate my evening meal around 5:30 and had a serving of lean meat and two or three vegetables. I cut down on salt. Dessert, other than fruit, was restricted to once a week. I drank plenty of water between meals but I left out all sodas, candy and in-between meal snacks.

"In two years I lost 60 pounds. At one time I gained back five pounds, but I took them off and now I have no trouble. I eat just about what I want, but the wonderful part is that I don't seem to want too much. I completely changed my food habits. I now eat pie or cake about once or twice a month — just don't seem to care for rich dessert.

"I also took toning exercises. I look younger than I did ten years ago and, oh, I feel so much better! My measurements were bra 44, waist 38, hips 46. My present measurements are: bra 36, waist 29, hips 38.

"Two years ago I had a complete check-up and the doctor gave me a perfect bill of health. I am so happy that I made up my mind to change my eating habits and followed through."

—:—

HOW DO YOU get the new, slimming food habits to stick? Through repetition, for that's the way any new habit is formed. On three protective meals a day furnishing 1,000 to 1,500 calories, you can lose 1 to 2 pounds a week, without going hungry.

Protective eating is so rewarding that without conscious effort eating for weight control becomes part of your daily living. Then it's habit, good habit.

Send a stamped, self - addressed, long envelope for "Hunger Control Diet." Address request to Ida Jean Kain, in care of this newspaper. Postcard requests cannot be answered.

River Crew Attempts To Right Upset Barge

Salvage crews today still were attempting to right one of four barges that broke loose from near Kobuta Tuesday night and overturned while floating downstream to East Liverpool.

One of the 500 - ton carriers crashed into an oil barge of the Mississippi - Ohio Oil Terminal Co. along River Rd. Another ran aground on the tip of Babb's Island, a third beached below Chester and the fourth sank in shallow water across from the Midland Slag Co.

The Crane Bros. river contracting company attempted to right the overturned barge at the oil terminal but apparently gave up Thursday night and towed it upside down to the West Virginia shore.

Lumber Worker Hurt Using Power Saw

A Chester Lumber Co. employe, injured while using a power saw at work, is in "fairly good" condition today at City Hospital. Two boys were treated Thursday following separate mishaps.

Jeddie Spencer, 41, of Fairview Rd. suffered amputation of parts of three fingers of the left hand when the saw slipped as he was cutting lumber at the firm's shop yesterday afternoon about 4:10.

Clifford Chapel, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Chapel, 100 3rd St., Wellsville, was treated for a possible fracture of the shoulder suffered while playing basketball at the home of a friend.

James Dray, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Dray, 818 Chester Ave., suffered a laceration of the scalp when struck by a tin can.

Agencies Take Custody Of 3 Youths In Thefts

Two agencies took custody of three East Liverpool boys linked to a series of city thefts at hearings Thursday in Juvenile Court at Lisbon.

Judge Louis Tobin relieved the parents of custody of one 16 and another 14 and placed them with the Columbiana County Welfare Department, and the custody of another 16-year-old was given to the Catholic Charities.

The three were charged with burglaries of auto accessory stores, churches and homes in East Liverpool and confessed after arrest by police.

To Face Hearing

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — Gerald K. McMahan, 25, of Cleveland, Ohio, faces a preliminary hearing today on a charge of raping a 15-year-old Clearwater girl at her home. He had been jailed here since Tuesday for investigation and was formally charged Thursday after authorities conferred with the girl.

Idle Crucible Mine Is Sold

The Crucible Steel Co. has sold its idle coal mine at Crucible, Pa., with the final purchaser apparently intending to place it in reserve rather than resume mining.

The mine in Greene County was sold to Pittsfield - Clinchfield Coal Sales Corp., which in turn sold it to the Consolidation Coal Co. More than $1 million was involved in the transaction.

Consolidation apparently intends to add an estimated 15 million tons of minable metallurgical coal to its reserves on the Monongahela River.

Pittston - Clinchfield, a division of the diversified Pittston Co. of New York, now has a long-term contract to provide Crucible Steel, principally at Midland, with coal to be shipped from West Virginia mines.

C. G. Tillson, Jr., manager of raw materials said Crucible sold the Greene County mine and buildings, which it has owned since 1911, "because we feel we can better meet our demands by buying coal from other producers."

Crucible's other mine, in Hughesston, W. Va., recently was shut down for an indefinite period.

Some 81 idle miners at Crucible now face little prospect of regaining employment at the operation.

Churchmen Seek Officers Ousting In Vice Crusade

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—Northern Kentucky churchmen, crusading against vice and gambling, asked Gov. Bert Combs Thursday to oust eight law enforcement officers in Newport and Campbell County.

Six ministers and three laymen filed an affidavit in the office of Combs, who was out of town for speaking engagements.

Newport faces Cincinnati across the Ohio River.

The churchmen alleged the officials have been derelict in their duties.

The affidavit requested Combs to file charges against the officials named and to set a date for a public hearing. Statute provides the hearing can be held by the governor or his appointee and that testimony may be oral or by deposition.

If Combs concludes the allegations are true, he has authority to remove the guilty parties from office.

The 31-page affidavit had three exhibits relating to Newport and Campbell County.

One was a copy of a Saturday Evening Post magazine article entitled, "Kentucky's Open City"; the second a copy of an Esquire magazine article, "Cross Section U.S.A.: Sin Town"; and the third a list of names of persons in northern Kentucky who purchased $50 federal gambling stamps. The list—108 names—was published in the Kentucky edition of the Cincinnati Enquirer.

William Haney, Donald Hissam and Alton Johnson were appointed to meet with trustees of the fund to set up rates for loans made by firemen from the fund.

Fire Chief William Glover requested the ways and means committee to plan fund-raising projects.

A special meeting will be held later with the Heck's Amusement Co. to set a date for the annual firemen's Fair.

Plans were made for a check on water pressure at all fire hydrants in the city with Lewis Govey, water works superintendent. Lunch was served. The next meeting is April 6.

Jury Holding Killer's Fate

OTTAWA, Ill. (AP)—The fate of Chester (Rocky) Weger, accused of murdering three women in Starved Rock State Park, rests today with a circuit court jury that has deliberated five hours.

The state is seeking the death penalty.

After considering the evidence in two sessions Thursday, the seven women and five men jurors retired for the night.

Weger, 21, was a handyman and kitchen helper at the park lodge when the women were beaten to death in a canyon March 14.

His attorney, John A. McNamara, said in his final argument the state failed to support its charge of murder. He said Weger was the scapegoat of ambitions of William Dummett, a chief deputy sheriff who, the attorney said, wanted to advance himself.

State's Atty. Robert E. Richardson said the slaying "cries out for vengeance. This is one time where the biblical adage 'an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth' pertains."

Weger's trial was on a charge of murder in the death of Lillian Oetting, 50. He also is accused of murdering Frances Murphy, 47, and Mildred Linquist. All wives of Chicago business executives, they were on a brief holiday at the park when slain.

GE Charges Terror Reign In IUE Strike

CLEVELAND (AP) — General Electric Co., in a complaint filed before the National Labor Relations Board Thursday, charged officials of the International Union of Electrical Workers with conducting a "reign of terror" during a strike at the Bucyrus plant last October.

Henry F. Donahower, manager of employe and community relations for GE's Nela Park Division, filed the unfair labor practices action. Charged were David J. Fitzmaurice, president of District 7 of the IUE, and two members of Local 704 in Bucyrus.

GE alleged the Bucyrus plant was damaged and some employes who tried to go back to work were assaulted. Three international representatives also were named.

GE charged employes were coerced to remain away from work until an injunction was granted by the Crawford County Courts.

Commenting on the charges, Fitzmaurice, former head of Local 707 of GE employes here, said he thought the company was only trying to save face.

"It's taken them a long time to figure out what went on," he said. "It's the type of thing we expect of GE."

The action followed by one week the NLRB's dismissal of a decertification election petition by some employes asking that the IUE be dropped as the bargaining representative for Local 704.

Phillip Fusco, NLRB regional director, said he soon would assign one of his members to investigate the unfair labor practice charge.

Changed Food Habits Work Wonders

What is the hardest part about reducing? One former overweight made this significant reply, "The wasted years it took me to make up my mind to change my food habits."

By Ida Jean Kain

If you are forever going on - and - off diets, why not make up your mind to change to a slimming pattern of eating? Get over the notion that food habits are unalterable and that you will always hanker for fattening fare. You will enjoy eating for weight control. Coming from the dietitian, these words may not carry conviction. Take it from a happy reducer ... She has nothing to "sell" you — except new hope.

"Ten years ago I weighed 204 pounds. I'm 5 feet 4½, so you see I was quite a rolly-poly.

"I COULDN'T wear the pretty clothes which I had always admired. Also I decided that if I didn't lose some weight I would probably harm my health.

"I started on a diet of my own choosing. For breakfast I ate one egg, a strip of crisp bacon, a piece of dry toast and black coffee.

"For lunch I had a meat sandwich, a glass of buttermilk and tomatoes or salad greens.

"I ate my evening meal around 5:30 and had a serving of lean meat and two or three vegetables. I cut down on salt. Dessert, other than fruit, was restricted to once a week. I drank plenty of water between meals but I left out all sodas, candy and in-between meal snacks.

"In two years I lost 60 pounds. At one time I gained back five pounds, but I took them off and now I have no trouble. I eat just about what I want, but the wonderful part is that I don't seem to want too much. I completely changed my food habits. I now eat pie or cake about once or twice a month — just don't seem to care for rich dessert.

"I also took toning exercises. I look younger than I did ten years ago and, oh, I feel so much better! My measurements were bra 44, waist 38, hips 46. My present measurements are: bra 36, waist 29, hips 38.

"Two years ago I had a complete check-up and the doctor gave me a perfect bill of health. I am so happy that I made up my mind to change my eating habits and followed through."

HOW DO YOU get the new, slimming food habits to stick? Through repetition, for that's the way any new habit is formed. On three protective meals a day furnishing 1,000 to 1,500 calories, you can lose 1 to 2 pounds a week, without going hungry.

Protective eating is so rewarding that without conscious effort eating for weight control becomes part of your daily living. Then it's habit, good habit.

Send a stamped, self - addressed, long envelope for "Hunger Control Diet." Address request to Ida Jean Kain, in care of this newspaper. Postcard requests cannot be answered.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I was struck by Alice's letter. She wrote that her charming boy friend spent all of 35 cents on her in the three years they had been going together. I think I must be dating the same man. There can't be two.

Alice's letter made me see my own situation clearly and I am dropping the bum as of now. Please print this letter, because he reads your column every day (free office copy) and I'm sure he will recognize himself.

I've spent whole days with him and he never so much as asked if I was hungry. At times I've become faint and wanted to stop for a cup of coffee. He'd say: "You'll be home in a few minutes, and your coffee is so much better than the commercial stuff." Then he'd take me right home.

When I have suggested a movie he'd say: "People are more interesting than pictures," then we'd go to the park and sit.

It took Alice's letter to open my eyes and I am deeply grateful. From now on, he can stay at home and rattle his small change for entertainment. — KAY.

-:-

Dear Kay: Congratulations on the good riddance. Why not give the last of the red hot spenders a farewell gift — a few mothballs for his change purse.

Child Bride

Dear Ann: Our daughter will be 16 in April. She is big for her age and has been going with fellows since she was 12.

Six months ago she fell in love with a fellow, 20. He is in the Army and stationed 12 miles from here. She nagged us after her third date to let her quit school and get married. My husband and I refused to give her permission. We insisted that she wait 18 months, until after graduation.

In October they said they wanted to get married right away because he may get transferred. We finally gave in with the understanding that she would remain in high school regardless.

Now her husband is being transferred and she wants to quit school and go with him. What can we do? — SICK PARENTS.

Dear Sick: You can take kicking one another for allowing a 15-year-old girl to get married. Now that she's a married woman (!) she belongs with her husband. Encourage her to enroll in high school wherever she lands and hope that she'll have sense enough to do it. In the meantime, don't rent her room. The chances are better than even that she'll be back.

Foot In Mouth

Dear Ann. I know you don't write a health column but my problem is more a matter of common sense than medicine. Please tell us who is right.

This morning I was heating the baby's formula. I wasn't sure the milk was warm enough so I tested it by stirring it with my finger. My husband walked into the kitchen at that moment and you'd have thought I put carbolic acid in the baby's formual.

He became furious and said I should use a spoon. I said my finger is as clean as any spoon that has been sitting in a drawer collecting bacteria. Who is right?—BETTY.

Dear Betty: There are bacteria all around us but most of us have sufficient resistance to combat them.

It is far more hygienic (not to mention aesthetic) to stir food with a clean spoon. You should not put your fingers in the baby's formula.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Older Child Dislikes Home Chores

The child from two to four likes to do things for his mother. He may follow her about the house with his little broom or carpet sweeper. He may like to stand on a box or chair washing vegetables or dishes at the kitchen sink. He may even like to do such at five or six, if he's the eldest or an only child and if his mother enjoys having him do so. But this same child at eight or ten may not want to do such jobs about the house. He rarely or never volunteers to do them or willingly does them when his mother asks him to. If assigned such jobs, he may try to get out of doing them. Sometimes his mother may remind him of the times he used to help her so much and may ask him why he doesn't want to help her now. At least she asks herself this question.

Dr. Garry Meyers

She may easily find some answers.

—:—

WHEN THIS child was two or three, he got fun from doing anything that made him feel he was getting older and bigger. When he did things his mother usually did, he felt very important and she added to this happy feeling by often saying, "You are getting so big!"

Now that he is eight or ten, he remembers he could do these jobs when he was only four or five; also he sees other younger children eagerly doing such. Why should he, now so much older, enjoy doing what "babies" can do?

If there is domestic help to do many of the household chores, this older child, unfortunately, doesn't consider these jobs very important, since they can be done by hirelings.

When he was three or four, doing these little jobs was amusement; he didn't have other play that he preferred. Now, almost every chore, if done on time, interferes with his doing other things he would rather do, interferes with his play.

CONSEQUENTLY, THE usual home chores a child six to 12 is supposed to do are not attractive to him. Parents who try to make them as attractive as they were when this child was three or four are sure to discover it can't be done.

Instead, parents should assign these chores and require the child to do them, setting up effective penalties if he doesn't.

Once the chores are inescapable, with the least possible annoyance to all concerned, it's possible to reduce the child's displeasure in doing them, even to help him get satisfaction therefrom.

It's the child so trained in home responsibilities who can have most satisfactions and enjoyments in his family.

My bulletins, "How To Teach Child To Help at Home" and "Responsibility," may be had by sending a self - addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I was struck by Alice's letter. She wrote that her charming boy friend spent all of 35 cents on her in the three years they had been going together. I think I must be dating the same man. There can't be two.

Alice's letter made me see my own situation clearly and I am dropping the bum as of now. Please print this letter, because he reads your column every day (free office copy) and I'm sure he will recognize himself.

I've spent whole days with him and he never so much as asked if I was hungry. At times I've become faint and wanted to stop for a cup of coffee. He'd say: "You'll be home in a few minutes, and your coffee is so much better than the commercial stuff." Then he'd take me right home.

When I have suggested a movie he'd say: "People are more interesting than pictures," then we'd go to the park and sit.

It took Alice's letter to open my eyes and I am deeply grateful. From now on, he can stay at home and rattle his small change for entertainment. — KAY.

-:-

Dear Kay: Congratulations on the good riddance. Why not give the last of the red hot spenders a farewell gift — a few mothballs for his change purse.

Child Bride

Dear Ann: Our daughter will be 16 in April. She is big for her age and has been going with fellows since she was 12.

Six months ago she fell in love with a fellow, 20. He is in the Army and stationed 12 miles from here. She nagged us after her third date to let her quit school and get married. My husband and I refused to give her permission. We insisted that she wait 18 months, until after graduation.

In October they said they wanted to get married right away because he may get transferred. We finally gave in with the understanding that she would remain in high school regardless.

Now her husband is being transferred and she wants to quit school and go with him. What can we do? — SICK PARENTS.

Dear Sick: You can take kicking one another for allowing a 15-year-old girl to get married. Now that she's a married woman (!) she belongs with her husband. Encourage her to enroll in high school wherever she lands and hope that she'll have sense enough to do it. In the meantime, don't rent her room. The chances are better than even that she'll be back.

Foot In Mouth

Dear Ann. I know you don't write a health column but my problem is more a matter of common sense than medicine. Please tell us who is right.

This morning I was heating the baby's formula. I wasn't sure the milk was warm enough so I tested it by stirring it with my finger. My husband walked into the kitchen at that moment and you'd have thought I put carbolic acid in the baby's formual.

He became furious and said I should use a spoon. I said my finger is as clean as any spoon that has been sitting in a drawer collecting bacteria. Who is right?— BETTY.

Dear Betty: There are bacteria all around us but most of us have sufficient resistance to combat them.

It is far more hygienic (not to mention aesthetic) to stir food with a clean spoon. You should not put your fingers in the baby's formula.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Older Child Dislikes Home Chores

The child from two to four likes to do things for his mother. He may follow her about the house with his little broom or carpet sweeper. He may like to stand on a box or chair washing vegetables or dishes at the kitchen sink. He may even like to do such at five or six, if he's the eldest or an only child and if his mother enjoys having him do so. But this same child at eight or ten may not want to do such jobs about the house. He rarely or never volunteers to do them or willingly does them when his mother asks him to. If assigned such jobs, he may try to get out of doing them. Sometimes his mother may remind him of the times he used to help her so much and may ask him why he doesn't want to help her now. At least she asks herself this question.

Dr. Garry Meyers

She may easily find some answers.

-:-

WHEN THIS child was two or three, he got fun from doing anything that made him feel he was getting older and bigger. When he did things his mother usually did, he felt very important and she added to this happy feeling by often saying, "You are getting so big!"

Now that he is eight or ten, he remembers he could do these jobs when he was only four or five; also he sees other younger children eagerly doing such. Why should he, now so much older, enjoy doing what "babies" can do?

If there is domestic help to do many of the household chores, this older child, unfortunately, doesn't consider these jobs very important, since they can be done by hirelings.

When he was three or four, doing these little jobs was amusement; he didn't have other play that he preferred. Now, almost every chore, if done on time, interferes with his doing other things he would rather do, interferes with his play.

CONSEQUENTLY, THE usual home chores a child six to 12 is supposed to do are not attractive to him. Parents who try to make them as attractive as they were when this child was three or four are sure to discover it can't be done.

Instead, parents should assign these chores and require the child to do them, setting up effective penalties if he doesn't.

Once the chores are inescapable, with the least possible annoyance to all concerned, it's possible to reduce the child's displeasure in doing them, even to help him get satisfaction therefrom.

It's the child so trained in home responsibilities who can have most satisfactions and enjoyments in his family.

My bulletins, "How To Teach Child To Help at Home" and "Responsibility," may be had by sending a self - addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

Actor Proud Of Being Biggest Heel In Town

One of the mugs in a comedy crime story on this Sunday's "Theater" is Jack LaRue. At 59, he still packs the best sneer in the business.

Hal Humphrey

"Listen," says Jack. "There never has been a bigger heel than the one I played in 'The Story of Temple Drake.' I attacked the girl and then shot a cripple, remember?"

You have to go back to 1933 to remember that one. It was the movie based on William Faulkner's "Sanctuary." By an odd coincidence, a second movie version, this time under the original title, is in theaters this month.

The Frenchman, Yves Montand, plays LaRue's heel. Jack hasn't seen the new movie, but you can tell he's not going to be too impressed, no matter what kind of knavery Montand conjures up.

-:-

"I WAS JUST a $250 - a - week player at Paramount when George Raft turned down that role," recalls Jack. "The studio put him on suspension and called me in to take over as Trigger."

Raft thought Trigger was too heely and that whoever did it would be writing finis to a budding career. He still says he did the right thing and that Jack did kill his career.

"That's silly. What career? I had none at that time, but after 'Temple Drake' I never worked less than 35 weeks a year. One thing about a heel, he can always work. And let me tell you something — the women liked my character in that picture. I got all kinds of mail. You wouldn't believe what some women wrote to me."

-:-

JACK SAYS he's getting an average of two to three offers a week for roles on TV shows now.

"Naturally, most of them are for assorted heels — smugglers, kidnapers, pimps and so on. I have to turn them down if they're too big, because I've got no time to study."

Since 1955, Jack has been operating his own restaurant in the San Fernando Valley. He usually doesn't get away until 3:30 a.m.

"I took this 'Theater' thing because there are no lines for me. I just sneer, shoot at people and grunt once. I liked it. There's too much talk on TV anyway," he says.

-:-

JACK WAS OFFERED a role in one of "The Untouchables" recently but turned it down. It was too much dialogue, but another reason was his Italian ancestry. Like many other Italian - Americans, he resents the implication in "The Untouchables" that all hoods are Italian imports.

"You're happy in the restaurant business?" I ask.

"Are you kidding? I hate the restaurant business. There are too many phonies and drunks. A lady customer comes in with her boy-friend and throws her whisky in my face when I refuse to kiss her.

"All actors are stupid. Frank Borzage, the director, tried to get me to buy something years ago called Santa Anita shares at $5,000 a block. I says what is it? He says it's a new race track they're building in Pasadena. 'Pasadena!' I yelled. 'Who's going to go all the way to Pasadena to bet on a horse?' "

Jack also spent a year and a half making love to Mae West in her Broadway show, "Diamond Lil." He has been married twice, run for the Los Angeles City Council (defeated) and been kicked out of England for making too much money.

He has led a very full life, this fellow who was born Gaspare Biondolillo (blond lily).

2 Missiles Intercept Drone Jet Over Gulf

EGLIN AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (AP)—Two Bomarc missiles successfully intercepted a drone jet bomber high over the Gulf of Mexico Thursday.

Both interceptions were at 35,000 feet altitude. The QB47 bomber was not destroyed in the near-misses.

The first missile, an advanced B-model, met the bomber less than 50 miles from the launch site on nearby Santa Rosa Island. An hour later an operational A-model intercepted the same bomber 172 miles from the island.

Gunman Sought In Bank Holdup

NEW CASTLE, Pa. (AP) — A tall, slender gunman wanted for a $20,000 bank holdup was the object of a police search today.

The man, about 40 years of age, entered the South branch of the Peoples Bank of Lawrence County shortly before closing time Thursday.

He pressed the muzzle of a blue-steel revolver against the back of manager John Kennedy and handed him a note that said:

"This is a holdup. I want all the money."

Giving Kennedy a paper bag, the gunman said quietly: "Okay, start filling it up."

While Kennedy filled the bag with currency and coins from the tellers' cages, the gunman ordered three woman tellers, two customers and a child to stand in a corner of the bank.

He then took the money-filled bag and herded everyone into a back room.

"Give me at least five minutes to get out of here or I'll blow hell out of all of you," he said.

He then left the bank and ran down an alley. Police said they believe he had a car parked nearby.

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Ex-President Dwight D. Eisenhower says the United States "has lost a real friend" with the death of King Mohammed V of Morocco.

The former president issued a statement at his vacation home near Palm Springs Thursday expressing his sympathy to the people of Morocco and to the late ruler's son, King Hassan II.

Claims Wire In Hash

LISBON — Raymond Reese, 226 W. Washington St., filed suit for $10,000 in Common Pleas Court Thursday against Hillyer's IGA Foodliner, 126 E. Chestnut St., claiming that while eating hash in the store's restaurant he swallowed a piece of wire Nov. 30, 1960. He said he had to go to two hospitals to have it removed and alleges personal injuries. His suit also asks costs.

Cat's Grave Only Discovery As Hunt Goes On For Fortune

CENTRALIA, Ill. (AP) — The grave of a dead cat was the only confirmed discovery today as a search went on for a fortune in oil royalties believed hidden by Miss Bertha Pitchford, 71, before her death last week.

Coroner Leander Moss found Miss Pitchford's purse containing $29,700 when he was called to the house after the death Feb. 23. Under a pillow, he found $500.

Relatives busy with shovels, believe more money may be hidden on the grounds of the tiny, three-room house where she lived with her collection of cats.

Miss Pitchford received oil royalty checks for more than 20 years and was said to have converted the checks into cash. She owned 30 acres in a once-rich oil field near her cottage.

A banker told newsmen she once talked of burying money near a flower bed in her yard. The yard measures 75 by 100 feet. Her ramshackle house has no electricity and no plumbing.

Relatives dug around the house and searched the building Thursday. They reportedly plan to tear the house down.

At the end of the day they posted no tresspassing signs and boarded windows on the house. They declined to discuss the search.

A deputy sheriff guard said the only discovery made by diggers so far was a dead cat. It had been laid to rest in a tiny grave.

Service Program Outlined To Club

A proposed Kiwanis-sponsored citizenship program, to broaden individual and club responsibility to community service, was outlined by Atty. William Bush of Wellsville, Kiwanis lieutenant governor, at a meeting of the city club Thursday.

About 47 attended the session at the Travelers Hotel at which Atty. Bush described the Kiwanis-International project which involves a "citizen quotient," self analysis of citizenship standing.

The program is to be further developed at a division council meeting Tuesday night at 6:30 at Toronto, Atty. Bush said. He was introduced by Jud English, president.

A board meeting is slated Monday noon at the hotel.

New Use For Egg

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Among the odd things that turned up in books returned to the city library was a fried egg that had been used as a page marker.

CINCINNATI (AP)—An estimated 6,400 jobless workers in Greater Cincinnati will have exhausted their claims to benefits by April 1, a spokesman in the Cincinnati Bureau of Unemployment Compensation reported Thursday. An estimated 25,000 now out of work draw about $825,000 weekly in claims.

5 Men Signed With Navy

Five Navy enlistments in February included John C. Vincent of Glenmoor, an Eagle Scout and immediate past chairman of the Cherokee Scout District Explorer Cabinet, Chief Shipfitter James M. Pattison, in charge of the City Hall recruiting office, said today.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Vincent, he signed for the medical field under the Navy's high school graduate training program. Vincent also was associate advisor of Explorer Post 7 of St. Aloysius Catholic Church and is widely known in both the Cherokee and Shawnee Districts of the County Boy Scout Council.

Also enlisting last month were: Gene Hollabaugh, son of Mrs. Effie Hollabaugh, 626½ Park Ave., East Palestine; Herbert R. Nesselrotte, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Nesselrotte of Columbiana R. D. 2; Bernard J. Krawiec, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley P. Krawiec, 336 Louisiana Ave., Chester, and Ted R. Hannay, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold G. Hannay of Salem.

Hollabaugh, Nesselrotte and Hannay also enlisted under the high school graduate training program. Hollabaugh chose the electronics field, Nesselrotte picked airman recruit training and Hannay the seaman recruit training.

Hollabaugh is a 1960 graduate of East Palestine High School and Nesselrotte was graduated last spring from Columbiana High School.

Pants Not Skirts Urged By Doctor For Little Girls

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Fashion may frown but a physician told some 3,000 firemen Thursday that little girls ought to wear pants instead of skirts.

Dr. Carl A. Moyer of St. Louis said thousands die each year of burns—with too many cases due to skirts set afire by open flame heaters or fireplaces.

In his talk before the annual National Fire Department Instructors conference, Dr. Moyer, a faculty member at the school of medicine of Washington University, said: "There is no good reason for holding to a form of dress when a modification thereof makes the clothing safer.

"Fifty years ago little boys were dressed in skirts for no reason. It is now time that little girls be dressed in pants for a reason—that they will not be burned alive as often as they are."

what's new at Olsen's

"Signature Of Spring"

"Ollie Olsen"

Well, here we are—back again from a nice long vacation . . . and are we glad to be back! Can hardly wait to tell you all about the exciting new styles . . . fashions that are newly modified for Spring and fabrics that are drenched in the most exciting new colors that we've seen in many seasons . . . Bold colors and subtle colors . . . colors that will be the keynote to your Spring wardrobe.

Wave "Hello to Spring"! Say "Goodbye" to Winter. Just make sure you greet Spring in one of Olsen's smart new coats. These coats are high in fashion but low in cost. Have you seen the new laminated jersey coats that are causing such a sensation in the fashion world? These coats make perfect "season-less" coats. They are all water repellent and laminated with curon (the new wonder lining). With our weather, they are definitely a coat that can be worn seven or eight months of the year.

Our favorite is a smart little double breasted number with the new wide away collar, straight lines, and deep slash pockets. Of course, it has the new sleeve length that is so flattering with all the pretty, new, long, gloves. You'll love the way these coats feel—so light, yet with plenty of body to hold their shape. Such a grand array of color — shocking pink, banana, white, black and red. Priced to fit right into your budget . . . 22.79 and up.

Remember, we will be glad to hold the coat of your choice with a small down payment. Pick it up later. You'll be glad you made your choice while our selection was good.

Our buyer did not forget the small-fry, either. There's an adorable little laminated jersey coat for them, too. Just like Mom and big sister's . . . full length with tab pockets and a deep pleat in the back. Sizes 7-14 for only 13.79 in mint and lilac.

Flowers go to your head and to your heart for Easter. This is the season of the flowered hat. Take your choice of the Flower Cap Shell, to Clouche, to large brim, to straw demi cap, to Casual Sailor, to Pillbox, or Organza cap. In the most beautiful colors to complement your new suit or coat. You will be amazed at the price tag on these glamour hats. Just 2.88 and up. So you may want more than one at this price. All displayed on Olsen's hat bar.

Don't forget Olsen's are open every night 'till nine. So bring Dad and the kiddies down. You'll love this leisurely way of shopping — and good old Dad won't object at all. That's all today . . . See you next Friday.

Ollie Olsen

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

Actor Proud Of Being Biggest Heel In Town

One of the mugs in a comedy crime story on this Sunday's "Theater" is Jack LaRue. At 59, he still packs the best sneer in the business.

Hal Humphrey

"Listen," says Jack. "There never has been a bigger heel than the one I played in "The Story of Temple Drake.' I attacked the girl and then shot a cripple, remember?"

You have to go back to 1933 to remember that one. It was the movie based on William Faulkner's "Sanctuary." By an odd coincidence, a second movie version, this time under the original title, is in theaters this month.

The Frenchman, Yves Montand, plays LaRue's heel. Jack hasn't seen the new movie, but you can tell he's not going to be too impressed, no matter what kind of knavery Montand conjures up.

-:-

"I WAS JUST a $250 - a - week player at Paramount when George Raft turned down that role," recalls Jack. "The studio put him on suspension and called me in to take over as Trigger."

Raft thought Trigger was too heely and that whcever did it would be writing finis to a budding career. He still says he did the right thing and that Jack did kill his career.

"That's silly. What career? I had none at that time, but after 'Temple Drake' I never worked less than 35 weeks a year. One thing about a heel, he can always work. And let me tell you something — the women liked my character in that picture. I got all kinds of mail. You wouldn't believe what some women wrote to me."

-:-

JACK SAYS he's getting an average of two to three offers a week for roles on TV shows now.

"Naturally, most of them are for assorted heels — smugglers, kidnapers, pimps and so on. I have to turn them down if they're too big, because I've got no time to study."

Since 1955, Jack has been operating his own restaurant in the San Fernando Valley. He usually doesn't get away until 3:30 a.m.

"I took this 'Theater' thing because there are no lines for me. I just sneer, shoot at people and grunt once. I liked it. There's too much talk on TV anyway," he says.

-:-

JACK WAS OFFERED a role in one of "The Untouchables" recently but turned it down. It was too much dialogue, but another reason was his Italian ancestry. Like many other Italian - Americans, he resents the implication in "The Untouchables" that all hoods are Italian imports.

"You're happy in the restaurant business?" I ask.

"Are you kidding? I hate the restaurant business. There are too many phonies and drunks. A lady customer comes in with her boy-friend and throws her whisky in my face when I refuse to kiss her.

"All actors are stupid. Frank Borzage, the director, tried to get me to buy something years ago called Santa Anita shares at $5,000 a block. I says what is it? He says it's a new race track they're building in Pasadena. 'Pasadena!' I yelled. 'Who's going to go all the way to Pasadena to bet on a horse?'"

Jack also spent a year and a half making love to Mae West in her Broadway show, "Diamond Lil." He has been married twice, run for the Los Angeles City Council (defeated) and been kicked out of England for making too much money.

He has led a very full life, this fellow who was born Gaspare Biondolillo (blond lily).

2 Missiles Intercept Drone Jet Over Gulf

EGLIN AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (AP)—Two Bomarc missiles successfully intercepted a drone jet bomber high over the Gulf of Mexico Thursday.

Both interceptions were at 35,000 feet altitude. The QB47 bomber was not destroyed in the near-misses.

Ceramists Set Award Dinner

Dr. Eugene C. Sullivan of Corning, N. Y., will receive the annual Albert Victor Bleininger Memorial Award "for distinguished achievement in the field of ceramics" at a ceremony in Pittsburgh Friday night, March 10.

Presentation of the gold medal and scroll symbolizing the award will follow a dinner meeting of the Pittsburgh Section of the American Ceramic Society at the Pittsburgh Athletic Association.

Dr. Sullivan's selection for the award was announced by the section Dec. 10. He is honorary board chairman and a director of the Corning Glass Works at Corning, N. Y.

Principal speaker will be Dr. W. H. Armistead, Corning vice president and director of research and development. The toastmaster will be Dr. Samuel R. Scholes of Alfred University at Alfred, N. Y.

The Pittsburgh Section makes the award annually in honor of the late Dr. A. V. Bleininger, for many years director of research for the Homer Laughlin China Co.

Associated with Corning since 1908, Dr. Sullivan is known best for development of borosilicate glasses such as those used in Pyrex brand cookingware and chemical glassware. More than 65,000 different formulas for glass and ceramic compositions have come from his laboratories.

Cocktails will be served at 6:30, with dinner set for 7. Reservations are in charge of Phil F. Sauereisen of the Sauereisen Cement Co. in Pittsburgh.

Gunman Sought In Bank Holdup

NEW CASTLE, Pa. (AP) — A tall, slender gunman wanted for a $20,000 bank holdup was the object of a police search today.

The man, about 40 years of age, entered the South branch of the Peoples Bank of Lawrence County shortly before closing time Thursday.

He pressed the muzzle of a blue-steel revolver against the back of manager John Kennedy and handed him a note that said:

"This is a holdup. I want all the money."

Giving Kennedy a paper bag, the gunman said quietly: "Okay, start filling it up."

While Kennedy filled the bag with currency and coins from the tellers' cages, the gunman ordered three woman tellers, two customers and a child to stand in a corner of the bank.

He then took the money-filled bag and herded everyone into a back room.

"Give me at least five minutes to get out of here or I'll blow hell out of all of you," he said.

He then left the bank and ran down an alley. Police said they believe he had a car parked nearby.

Ike Says U.S. Lost Friend In King's Death

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Ex-President Dwight D. Eisenhower says the United States "has lost a real friend" with the death of King Mohammed V of Morocco.

The former president issued a statement at his vacation home near Palm Springs Thursday expressing his sympathy to the people of Morocco and to the late ruler's son, King Hassan II.

Claims Wire In Hash

LISBON — Raymond Reese, 226 W. Washington St., filed suit for $10,000 in Common Pleas Court Thursday against Hillyer's IGA Foodliner, 126 E. Chestnut St., claiming that while eating hash in the store's restaurant he swallowed a piece of wire Nov. 30, 1960. He said he had to go to two hospitals to have it removed and alleges personal injuries. His suit also asks costs.

"The seven seas" is strictly poetical. Actually, the maps show 17 seas and 4 oceans.

Cat's Grave Only Discovery As Hunt Goes On For Fortune

CENTRALIA, Ill. (AP) — The grave of a dead cat was the only confirmed discovery today as a search went on for a fortune in oil royalties believed hidden by Miss Bertha Pitchford, 71, before her death last week.

Coroner Leander Moss found Miss Pitchford's purse containing $29,700 when he was called to the house after the death Feb. 23. Under a pillow, he found $500.

Relatives busy with shovels, believe more money may be hidden on the grounds of the tiny, three-room house where she lived with her collection of cats.

Miss Pitchford received oil royalty checks for more than 20 years and was said to have converted the checks into cash. She owned 30 acres in a once-rich oil field near her cottage.

A banker told newsmen she once talked of burying money near a flower bed in her yard. The yard measures 75 by 100 feet. Her ramshackle house has no electricity and no plumbing.

Relatives dug around the house and searched the building Thursday. They reportedly plan to tear the house down.

At the end of the day they posted no tresspassing signs and boarded windows on the house. They declined to discuss the search.

A deputy sheriff guard said the only discovery made by diggers so far was a dead cat. It had been laid to rest in a tiny grave.

Service Program Outlined To Club

A proposed Kiwanis-sponsored citizenship program, to broaden individual and club responsibility to community service, was outlined by Atty. William Bush of Wellsville, Kiwanis lieutenant governor, at a meeting of the city club Thursday.

About 47 attended the session at the Travelers Hotel at which Atty. Bush described the Kiwanis-International project which involves a "citizen quotient," self analysis of citizenship standing.

The program is to be further developed at a division council meeting Tuesday night at 6:30 at Toronto, Atty. Bush said. He was introduced by Jud English, president.

A board meeting is slated Monday noon at the hotel.

Five Navy enlistments in February included John C. Vincent of Glenmoor, an Eagle Scout and immediate past chairman of the Cherokee Scout District Explorer Cabinet, Chief Shipfitter James M. Pattison, in charge of the City Hall recruiting office, said today.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Vincent, he signed for the medical field under the Navy's high school graduate training program. Vincent also was associate advisor of Explorer Post 7 of St. Aloysius Catholic Church and is widely known in both the Cherokee and Shawnee Districts of the County Boy Scout Council.

Also enlisting last month were: Gene Hollabaugh, son of Mrs. Effie Hollabaugh, 626½ Park Ave., East Palestine; Herbert R. Nesselrotte, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Nesselrotte of Columbiana R. D. 2; Bernard J. Krawiec, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley P. Krawiec, 336 Louisiana Ave., Chester, and Ted R. Hannay, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold G. Hannay of Salem.

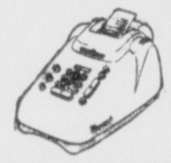

Hollabaugh, Nesselrotte and Hannay also enlisted under the high school graduate training program. Hollabaugh chose the electronics field, Nesselrotte picked airman recruit training and Hannay the seaman recruit training.

Hollabaugh is a 1960 graduate of East Palestine High School and Nesselrotte was graduated last spring from Columbiana High School.

Pants Not Skirts Urged By Doctor For Little Girls

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Fashion may frown but a physician told some 3,000 firemen Thursday that little girls ought to wear pants instead of skirts.

Dr. Carl A. Moyer of St. Louis said thousands die each year of burns—with too many cases due to skirts set afire by open flame heaters or fireplaces.

In his talk before the annual National Fire Department Instructors conference, Dr. Moyer, a faculty member at the school of medicine of Washington University, said: "There is no good reason for holding to a form of dress when a modification thereof makes the clothing safer.

"Fifty years ago little boys were dressed in skirts for no reason. It is now time that little girls be dressed in pants for a reason—that they will not be burned alive as often as they are."

Welfare Committee Proposal

State Urged To Shoulder All Poor Relief Financing

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The state should take over all the responsibility—and taxes—for financing poor relief, the Governor's Welfare Committee recommended today.

The proposition was tossed before a governor's cabinet meeting. There was no immediate comment from the governor or cabinet members.

The committee recommended a big switch from the present relief system which sees the state match local relief spending, dollar for dollar.

Under the proposal, local governments would be relieved of all responsibility for relief, financial or otherwise.

Poor relief now is costing the local and state governments, combined, about $6.5 million a month.

The committee was made up of Finance Director James H. Maloon, chairman; Mrs. Mary Gorman, welfare director, and Stanley J. Bowers, state tax commissioner.

The change from local control to state control would cost practically nothing, the governor's committee reported.

The proposal would abolish all city welfare agencies by the simple expedient of eliminating funds for them.

Soldiers and sailors relief would be abolished.

The committee reported there are far different welfare needs, county-to-county, than present welfare tax collections would indicate.

Included in the pattern laid out by the governor's committee is state retention of all of the public utilities excise tax which now is collected by the state and split, immediately, with local subdivisions to finance their poor relief programs. The state then uses the other half of the utility tax to finance the state's share of poor relief matching funds.

In short, the state would keep and use the utility tax it now shares to finance all poor relief needs.

In addition, the state would require local governments to ante up an amount of money equal to that they now are spending for poor relief. That amount would be paid into the Ohio general revenue fund to make up the difference between the utility tax received by local governments from the state and actual local costs of poor relief.

How the state could require local governments, through a free vote of the people, to tax themselves for poor relief administered totally by the state, was not explained in the committee report.

The committee report pointed out that legislation should be enacted, along with the shift in relief responsibility, to eliminate these levies:

The .15-mill levy for aid to dependent children; the .05-mill levy for crippled children, and the .5-mill levy for soldiers relief.

"The principle of the recipient being allowed to spend public money for his own subsistence," the report said, "is intended to help the individual retain his dignity and self-reliance . . ."

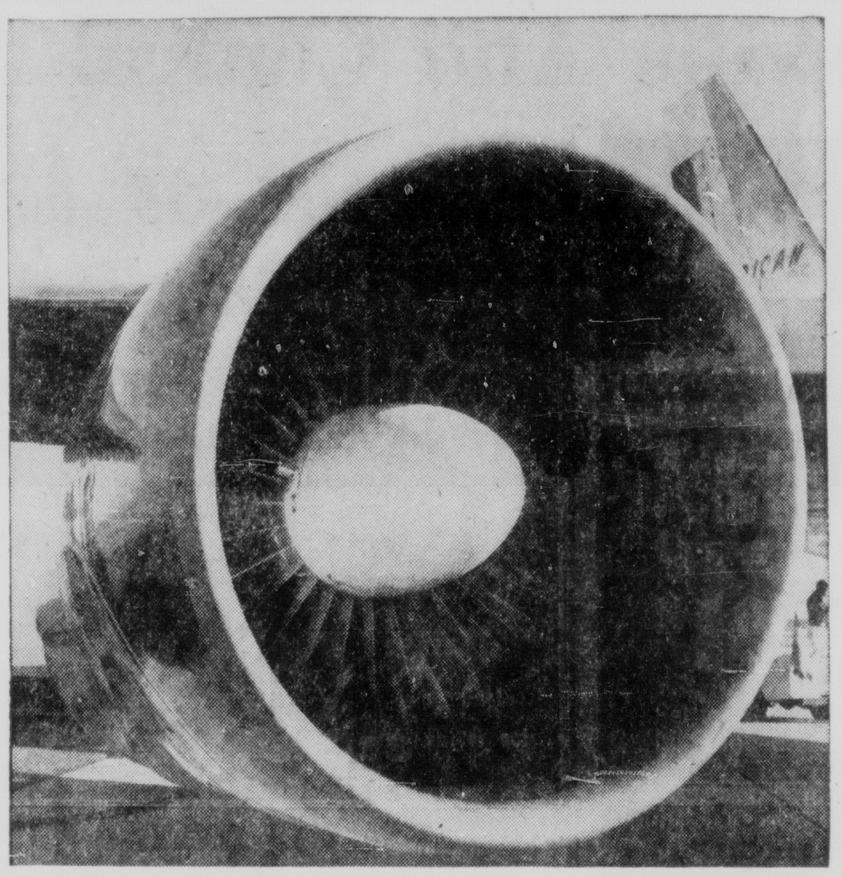

FBI Arrests Man Tied To Cleveland Holdups

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — FBI agents Thursday night arrested a man identified as a member of a gang which committed a score of holdups in the Cleveland, Ohio, area.

Agents arrested William Preston Duren, 41, at the home in Long Beach where he lived with his wife and two children.

He was arrested on a warrant charging him with fleeing Ohio to avoid prosecution.

Agents here said authorities identified Duren as a member of a gang whose Cleveland victims included the Allen Drug Store, robbed in January 1960, Fair Management Co., February 1960, Kramers Cafe, April 1960 and the Henry Grille, May 1960.

FAN-TASTIC. A big blowhard, this is the front of a jetfan, successor to the normal jet engines of today's high speed passenger planes. The power plant will be introduced on American Airlines' 707 Astrojet in New York March 12. An estimated one million dollars will be spent to fit the airline's present 707s with the jetfan, to make the fastest commercial planes flying.

Kennedy Says Freedom Rests On Natural Resources Wealth

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy said today America's great gift of natural resources wealth provides the foundation upon which defense of freedom rests.

Calling anew for development of these resources and conservation of wildlife areas, the President added: "Our future greatness and strength will depend upon the continued abundance of these same natural resources."

Kennedy expressed these views in a speech prepared for ceremonies dedicating the new headquarters building of the National Wildlife Federation, observing the 25th anniversary of its founding.

"This handsome building—the symbol of past achievement and the headquarters for future progress—was, in large part, made possible by a grant from the estate of a citizen of my own city —Louise Ayer Hatheway of Boston," the President said.

"I believe it is significant that I, a citizen of Massachusetts, now address a society devoted to a program which received its greatest support from two citizens of New York, Theodore Roosevelt and Franklin Roosevelt, housed in a building partly provided through the generosity of a native of Boston.

"It is significant because it dramatically illustrates that the problems of resource conservation are not regional problems or Western problems—they are national opportunities not bounded by geography."

Killed In Fall

KENT, Ohio (AP)—A 100-foot drop into the Cuyahoga River, after a wooden catwalk on a bridge collapsed, killed Pearl L. Wolf, 63, of Cleveland Thursday. Wolf and Joe Nameth Jr., 25, of Massillon were working on the Nickel Plate Road bridge. Nameth was not injured seriously and swam ashore.

A total of 200 visitors registered at the jail.

A total of 3,032 meals were served at the jail at a cost of $949.18, making the average daily expense per prisoner 93.9 cents.

Some light on a dark subject

Ever wonder why some pills come in clear, transparent bottles, while others hide behind brown or dark-green glass? It's no accident, but by design. Why . . . ? Simple daylight can reduce the potency of some medications. Consider how sunshine fades a rayon print, for instance. Thus, where needed, we use dark bottles, not to hide anything, but to preserve the medical effectiveness of the drug your physician prescribed for you. This is but one of many precautionary measures that are taken to provide you with the best in pharmaceutical service.

Potters Out! It's Wellsville And Central In Title Contest

TEMPERS FLARED in the heat of battle Thursday night as police and coaches separated East Liverpool and Steubenville Central players at Memorial Auditorium. No. 21 is East Liverpool's Kenny Cunningham who is attempting to control a Central player. The brawl broke out with 1:10 remaining in the game over a jump ball. Brawl Marks Sectional Tilt; Foul Shot Decides Game

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

A fighting band of Steubenville Central Crusaders hustled East Liverpool off its feet Thursday night to record one of the biggest upsets in the Upper Ohio Valley Sectional Tournament in some time.

After a brawl, an overtime and 35 minutes of thrilling basketball East Liverpool was ushered to the side of the tournament road by finishing on the short end of a 68-67 score before a stunned crowd of 900 at Memorial Auditorium.

There will be no third match between East Liverpool and Wellsville as was the pre-tourney prediction. Instead, Coach Francis Sebring will send his fired-up forces against the Tigers Saturday night at 8.

Saturday's finals, which will decide who leaves East Liverpool to compete in the District tournament at New Concord, will serve as a "rubber match" since Central and Wellsville split in two regular season games.

The Potters, top-seeded and a 69-54 winner over Central in season play, couldn't keep any kind of lead on the Steubenville five.

The loss also marked the first defeat suffered by East Liverpool at Memorial Auditorium this season. The Potters had won nine straight at home. They finished with an overall 12-7 record, while Central enters the finals with an 11-9 mark.

Asked about the final outcome, Coach Sebring replied, "the boys told me Wednesday night they would win it for me. We just wanted to win so much, and did."

THE DECIDING factor was a foul shot dropped in by Ross Monaco with three seconds remaining in the overtime period. Monaco made the first of two attempts to break a 67-67 tie.

East Liverpool grabbed the rebound when Monaco missed his second shot and Jack Deshler, junior substitute guard, fired a 40-foot one-hander that went in and out of the bucket as the buzzer sounded ending all Potter hopes.

Coach Jim Harris' team was all but defeated in regulation time. But Kenny Cunningham was given a golden opportunity to tie the game.

With two seconds left on the clock and Steubenville in front, 61-59, Cunningham was fouled after making a great steal at mid-court. He missed the foul, the ball bounced high toward the middle of the foul lane and sophomore Ed Prentice became the momentary hero when he came from nowhere and neatly tipped the ball in for two points which tied the contest at the final buzzer, 61-61.

Mike Geon, senior letterman who had only scored three points in the regulation time, tallied two field goals in the overtime.

The Potters drew first blood on Geon's first fielder but Tom Erosovich, who was the big nuisance to the Potters, matched this effort for a 63-63 tie.

Geon scored again, but Sam Fornsaglio knotted the count at 65-65. With 30 seconds remaining, Forsaglio lost his guard again and drove in for two more points, but senior Tom Clark scored on a quick layup for a 67-67 deadlock with 25 seconds remaining.

Monaco, driving from the side, was fouled and decided the decision with his free throw.

After the game, Monaco, who was assigned to watch Cunningham and did a brilliant job in holding the Potter star to six points the first half, was taken to City Hospital suffering from extreme exhaustion and shock.

THE BRAWL broke out with 1:10 remaining in the regulation contest at the stage end of the floor.

Ed Prentice and two Steubenville cagers were involved in a jump ball and the struggle continued with all three winding up on the floor. Then both benches unloaded as brief free-for-all developed. Police and coaches quickly broke up the fracas.

Erosovich was the standout for Central with 24 points on nine field goals and six of 11 fouls. He closed with a flourish by netting nine points in the fourth quarter. Erosovich was getting inside for a short jump shot. Monaco, who proved to be the game's hero, finished with 15 points, while John Polshaw collected 10.

Steubenville picked up the victory at the foul line. The Potters were charged with 24 personal fouls, a trouble spot with the smaller Blue and White cagers all season.

While East Liverpool won the battle from the field, 27-25, Central dropped in 18 of 36 fouls to 13 of 27 for the Potters.

Steubenville for the second straight appearance on the East Liverpool floor shot a good percentage with 25 of 55 for 45. The Potters had 27 for 68 for 39 per cent.

Each team lost one player on personal fouls. The Potters received a break when Polshaw, a 6-foot-3 junior and main rebounder for the Blue and Gold, left with 3:53 remaining in the game.

East Liverpool lost its second leading scorer — Ken Miller—with only 29 seconds to go.

CUNNINGHAM finished his high school career with a 22-point performance Thursday night. Sixteen came in the second half.

Monaco dogged Cunningham throughout the contest and didn't allow him many good shots.

Cunningham wound up the season with 461 points and a three-year career total of 1,124.

His running mate Miller tossed in 20 points and carried East Liverpool in the first half with 16 of the 30 points scored by the Potters.

Prentice turned in his finest performance of the season, climaxing the night with the tip-in with two seconds remaining in the game. He finished with nine points.

Last night's game was so close that the score was tied 11 different times and the lead changed hands on 14 occasions.

The Potters opened the contest by taking a 7-0 lead and it looked like the Blue and White would only have to go through the motions.

After the lead reached 10-1, Central began coming back and scored seven straight points to jump back into contention 13-12. After Cunningham scored, Barrett dropped in a bucket at the buzzer and the Potters only led 15-14.

The score jumped back and forth from one side to the other up until the last four minutes of the second quarter. After Geon had tied the count at 24-24, Monaco added two fouls and a field goal, John Kenny and Joe Drosak tallied field goals and Central went racing to a 32-24 margin.

Before the quarter ended, East Liverpool made up ground on four points by Miller and a goal by Cunningham. The half ended, 32-30.

East Liverpool, with Cunningham hitting once again, went into a five-point lead 37-32. But with three minutes remaining in the quarter, Polshaw put Central ahead once more, 40-39.

After three more ties, Cunningham got a three-point play with two seconds remaining and put the Potters in front, 47-44, as the third quarter ended.

The Potters maintained a slim lead for the three minutes in the fourth quarter, but with 4:45 remaining in the game, Erosovich put Central in front, 53-52. Cunningham matched the two points to push the Potters back in front, 54-53.

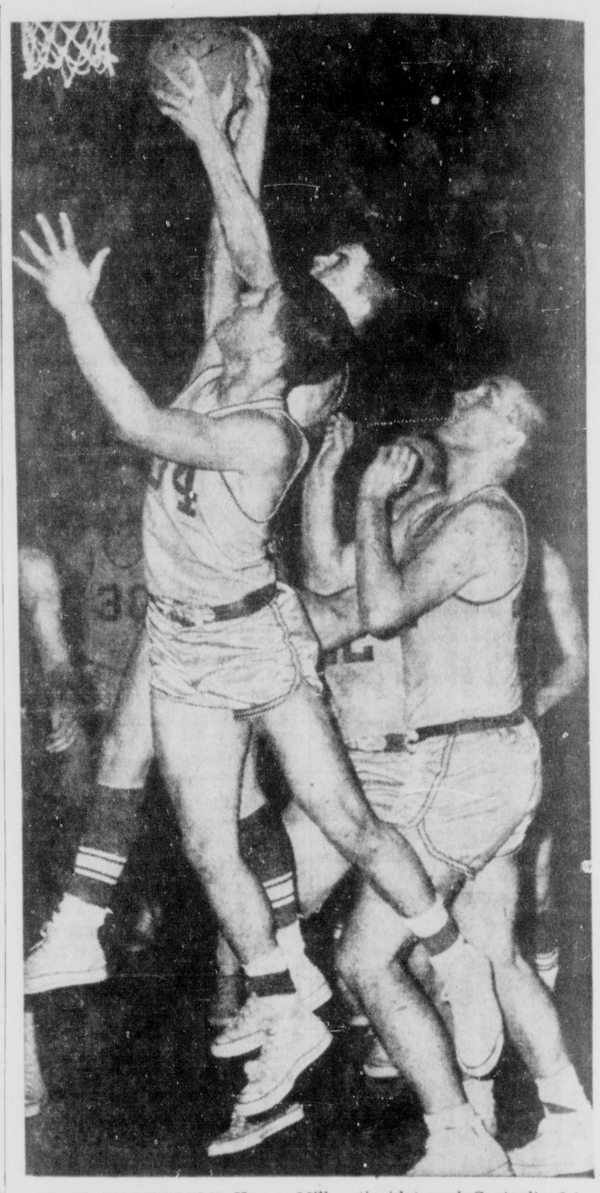

Kenny, and Polshaw added field goals for a 57-54 edge and Central remained in front until Prentice tied the game with his tip.

Some Changes Made . . .

Before 9:45 last night, the original plans called for this column to carry speculation on a third meeting between East Liverpool and Wellsville in the Sectional Tournament finals Saturday.

However, plans have been changed and Steubenville Central was the team that disarranged things.

Since Monday night when Wellsville defeated Steubenville Big Red, Potter and Tiger followers were only looking forward to one thing, another match between the two rivals.

Overconfidence on the part of the Potters, plus some shabby defense dispelled a third game. Steubenville had a little more fight than the Potters and it paid off at the end.

Coach Jim Harris, showing some disappointment said "the officials didn't have anything to do with our losing the game, I place the loss directly on our shoulders."

"I think maybe I'm to blame more than the team and I am willing to accept it," Harris added.

As it stands now, Wellsville appears to have a slight edge in Saturday's game, but anything can happen — it did Thursday night.

The Tigers can't stand to be too overconfident for darkhorse Central, who has been used at the Sectional tourney doormat for years, has finally asserted itself.

Wellsville and Central split during the regular season and both games were played on the Wellsville floor. Central defeated the Tigers, 57-51, on Jan.10, but Jack McDevitt's boys evened the score with a 57-44 win on Feb. 7.

The prediction here is Wellsville 58, Central 50.

Central Coach Hit By Object . . .

IT IS TOO bad that the fan who threw a paper object, which struck Central coach Francis Sebring just below the left eye, wasn't apprehended.

The object, apparently thrown by a Potter fan or from the student section, just missed hitting Sebring squarely in the eye. He was struck as he got up near the end of the game.

There is a limit to what a dollar paid by a fan allows him to do and surely it isn't endangering someone's eyesight as was the case Thursday.

The two police officers assigned to the game had their hands full and couldn't watch everything. The incident gave East Liverpool a black eye and not Sebring.

THE SECTIONAL tournament will probably lose some money at the gate Saturday night. An East Liverpool-Wellsville match would have packed Memorial Auditorium because of the intense rivalry.

—:—

PITT basketball coach Bob Timmons was in the crowd at last night's East Liverpool - Central game. He was particularly interested in Ken Cunningham and says, "he's definitely got it, and would fit into any college lineup with his outstanding shooting."

—:—

DISAPPOINTING in the East Liverpool tournament was Tuesday night's crowd of only 191 paid. It is one of the smallest we have ever seen at Memorial Auditorium for a basketball game.

—:—

IN THE star-of-the-future category, Toronto's Tom Coulter, only a freshman, should keep his coach Paul Kalivoda happy for the next three years. He is a deadly shot and has very good form.

WE RECEIVED a letter from Harlan C. Finley, a longtime Potter fan, who wrote the following relative to Lou Venditti's leaving East Liverpool. Mr. Finley now lives in Lake Worth, Fla.

Dear Bob: While I can't be there for the testimonial dinner for Lou Venditti, I am writing this letter to you in the hope that you will read at least part of it so that Lou will know I am thinking about him and wishing him every success in his new coaching position.

East Liverpool is losing one of the finest gentlemen and coaches I have ever known.

I hate to see him leave East Liverpool, but I know he is bettering himself.

Please express my best regards to Lou and the Nonpareil Club.

Very truly yours,
Harlan C. Finley

WATERFORD PARK, only mile oval in West Virginia, will become more colorful than ever for the summer meeting opening for a 68-day stand July 3.

A new color scheme of turquoise and white is planned for the entire track area from the steel fence along Route 66 to the Ohio River, according to Harry R. Bell, resident manager.

Most of the track's facilities are presently decorated in dark green and white.

Waterford probably will be the only race track in this part of the country doing business late next winter. The summer meeting opening July 3 will extend to Sept. 16. The fall meeting will extend from Nov. 9 to Dec. 9. Bell pointed out that no other track in this section will be operating so late in the year.

Dancing Becomes Part Of Sugar Ray's Drills

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Ingemar Johansson has been accused of trifling with his training, but his casual camp would look like a Prussian military academy next to the scene at Ray Robinson's last workout.

Robinson, training at one of the casinos in this hotbed of lethalized gambling, not only danced a soft shoe routine with Miss Powell in his final workout Thursday, but skipped rope to the accompaniment of a jazz band.

Actually, the 40-year-old challenger has not been conducting himself in this frivolous manner since he started training for his fourth title fight with the champion from Utah. Robinson worked so strenuously here one day that he wound up weighing only 157½ pounds — 2½ pounds below the limit and the lightest he has been in the late stages of training for eight years.

Fullmer was engaged in less spectacular pursuits Thursday. He took the day off and rested at his hotel.

Three Share Lead In New Orleans Golf

By ED TUNSTALL

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Julius Boros of Mid Pines, N.C., shared the lead with two others today heading into the second round of the $30,000 Greater New Orleans Invitational Golf Tournament.

The trio could be a bit uneasy with tournament favorite Arnold Palmer just a couple of steps behind.

Boros tied 25-year-old Johnny Pott of Shreveport, La., and Doug Sanders, the 27-year-old Ojai, Calif., professional with the hesitating swing, in Thursday's first round.

Boros was an early starter and his four-under-par 35-33—68 looked like it might stand by itself for some time.

Palmer had his troubles and finished eighth 36-34—70 to tie nine others. But with three days of golf ahead, the field kept a wary eye on Palmer, now leading money winner on the winter tour.

Four veterans — Mike Souchak of Grossinger's, N.Y., Marty Furgol of Cog Hill, Ill., Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Tex., and George Bayer of South Pasadena, Calif.—shared the runnerup spot behind the top three.

South Africa's Gary Player ran into difficulty with his long irons and had to settle for a 73. Defending champion Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., was well behind with a 75.

Midland Police Top All-Stars In Pistol

The Midland Police Dept. picked up a 1,392-1,359 victory in a pistol match with the Beaver Valley All-Stars Thursday night on the Midland range.

Eli Bratish fired 294 to lead Midland while other scores included Vincent D'tri 280, William Anusich 279, Milan Borato 271 and Sam Ratkovich 268. Wertchman with a 292 was high for the all-stars.

Thomas Gets Final Crack At Russian High Jumper

To date, Brumel, the Soviet high jumping whiz-kid, is batting 1,000, two victories in two tries against Thomas. He went 7-3 in the New York Athletic Club meet two weeks ago to Thomas' 7-1. Then last Saturday in the AAU championships, he cleared 7-2 to 7 for Thomas.

The Boston University junior celebrated his 20th birthday today, but he'll still be the underdog.

Thomas' coach, Ed Flanagan, still hasn't given up hope of scoring at least one victory over Brumel.

Brumel, 18, said he hopes to get off a jump of 7-4 to 7-5 in his final appearance here before heading back to Moscow and his schoolwork Saturday.

He already has jumped higher than anyone in history—7-4½ in Lenningrad on Jan. 28.

Otherwise, the feature will be the mile with Istvan Rozsavolgyi of Hungary favored and still trying for a sub-four-minute mark indoors.

Eugeny Momotkov of the Soviet Union, who ran in the mile last week, will return to two miles tonight, dueling George Young of Fort Lee, Va.

George Kerr, the Big Ten champion from Illinois by way of the British West Indies, shoots for the indoor 600-yard record of 1:09 held jointly by Mal Whitfield and Tom Courtney.

Jerry Seibert of California, who has won both his indoor starts is the 1,000-yard choice. Hayes Jones of Ypsilanti, Mich., is the 60-yard high hurdles favorite, and Don Bragg of the Delaware Valley A. A., should win the pole vault.

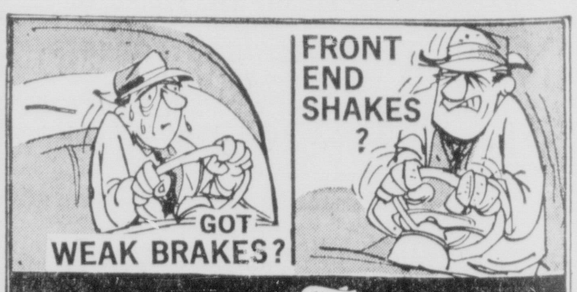

Lakers Fast Nailing Down Playoff Spot

The Los Angeles Lakers, thanks to Elgin Baylor, are fast nailing down a playoff spot in the National Basketball Association.

Baylor scored 34 points Thursday night to lead the Lakers to a 114-110 triumph over the Syracuse Nationals in the league's only game. The victory gave second place Los Angeles a three-game edge over Detroit and a 3½ game lead over Cincinnati, the cellar team in the Western Division.

Some Changes Made . . .

Before 9:45 last night, the original plans called for this column to carry speculation on a third meeting between East Liverpool and Wellsville in the Sectional Tournament finals Saturday.

However, plans have been changed and Steubenville Central was the team that disarranged things.

Since Monday night when Wellsville defeated Steubenville Big Red, Potter and Tiger followers were only looking forward to one thing, another match between the two rivals.

Overconfidence on the part of the Potters, plus some shabby defense dispelled a third game. Steubenville had a little more fight than the Potters and it paid off at the end.

Coach Jim Harris, showing some disappointment said "the officials didn't have anything to do with our losing the game, I place the loss directly on our shoulders."

"I think maybe I'm to blame more than the team and I am willing to accept it," Harris added.

As it stands now, Wellsville appears to have a slight edge in Saturday's game, but anything can happen — it did Thursday night.

The Tigers can't stand to be too overconfident for darkhorse Central, who has been used at the Sectional tourney doormat for years, has finally asserted itself.

Wellsville and Central split during the regular season and both games were played on the Wellsville floor. Central defeated the Tigers, 57-51, on Jan.10, but Jack McDevitt's boys evened the score with a 57-44 win on Feb. 7.

The prediction here is Wellsville 58, Central 50.

Central Coach Hit By Object . . .

IT IS TOO bad that the fan who threw a paper object, which struck Central coach Francis Sebring just below the left eye, wasn't apprehended.

The object, apparently thrown by a Potter fan or from the student section, just missed hitting Sebring squarely in the eye. He was struck as he got up near the end of the game.

There is a limit to what a dollar paid by a fan allows him to do and surely it isn't endangering someone's eyesight as was the case Thursday.

The two police officers assigned to the game had their hands full and couldn't watch everything. The incident gave East Liverpool a black eye and not Sebring.

THE SECTIONAL tournament will probably lose some money at the gate Saturday night. An East Liverpool-Wellsville match would have packed Memorial Auditorium because of the intense rivalry.

—:—

PITT basketball coach Bob Timmons was in the crowd at last night's East Liverpool - Central game. He was particularly interested in Ken Cunningham and says, "he's definitely got it, and would fit into any college lineup with his outstanding shooting."

—:—

DISAPPOINTING in the East Liverpool tournament was Tuesday night's crowd of only 191 paid. It is one of the smallest we have ever seen at Memorial Auditorium for a basketball game.

—:—

This 'N That In Sports . . .

WE RECEIVED a letter from Harlan C. Finley, a longtime Potter fan, who wrote the following relative to Lou Venditti's leaving East Liverpool. Mr. Finley now lives in Lake Worth, Fla.

Dear Bob: While I can't be there for the testimonial dinner for Lou Venditti, I am writing this letter to you in the hope that you will read at least part of it so that Lou will know I am thinking about him and wishing him every success in his new coaching position.

East Liverpool is losing one of the finest gentlemen and coaches I have ever known.

I hate to see him leave East Liverpool, but I know he is bettering himself.

Please express my best regards to Lou and the Nonpareil Club.

Very truly yours,
Harlan C. Finley

WATERFORD PARK, only mile oval in West Virginia, will become more colorful than ever for the summer meeting opening for a 68-day stand July 3.

A new color scheme of turquoise and white is planned for the entire track area from the steel fence along Route 66 to the Ohio River, according to Harry R. Bell, resident manager.

Most of the track's facilities are presently decorated in dark green and white.

Waterford probably will be the only race track in this part of the country doing business late next winter. The summer meeting opening July 3 will extend to Sept. 16. The fall meeting will extend from Nov. 9 to Dec. 9. Bell pointed out that no other track in this section will be operating so late in the year.

Dancing Becomes Part Of Sugar Ray's Drills

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Ingemar Johansson has been accused of trifling with his training, but his casual camp would look like a Prussian military academy next to the scene at Ray Robinson's last workout.

If dancing with Eleanor Powell is the type of exercise conducive to winning fights, the cunning operatives in the gambling dodge may be overlooking something when they make champion Gene Fullmer the favorite in Saturday night's middleweight championship match.

Robinson, training at one of the casinos in this hotbed of lethalized gambling, not only danced a soft shoe routine with Miss Powell in his final workout Thursday, but skipped rope to the accompaniment of a jazz band.

Actually, the 40-year-old challenger has not been conducting himself in this frivolous manner since he started training for his fourth title fight with the champion from Utah. Robinson worked so strenuously here one day that he wound up weighing only 157½ pounds — 2½ pounds below the limit and the lightest he has been in the late stages of training for eight years.

Fullmer was engaged in less spectacular pursuits Thursday. He took the day off and rested at his hotel.

Three Share Lead In New Orleans Golf

By ED TUNSTALL

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Julius Boros of Mid Pines, N.C., shared the lead with two others today heading into the second round of the $30,000 Greater New Orleans Invitational Golf Tournament.

The trio could be a bit uneasy with tournament favorite Arnold Palmer just a couple of steps behind.

Boros tied 25-year-old Johnny Pott of Shreveport, La., and Doug Sanders, the 27-year-old Ojai, Calif., professional with the hesitating swing, in Thursday's first round.

Boros was an early starter and his four-under-par 35-33—68 looked like it might stand by itself for some time.

Palmer had his troubles and finished eighth 36-34—70 to tie nine others. But with three days of golf ahead, the field kept a wary eye on Palmer, now leading money winner on the winter tour.

Four veterans — Mike Souchak of Grossinger's, N.Y., Marty Furgol of Cog Hill, Ill., Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Tex., and George Bayer of South Pasadena, Calif.— shared the runnerup spot behind the top three.

South Africa's Gary Player ran into difficulty with his long irons and had to settle for a 73. Defending champion Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., was well behind with a 75.

Midland Police Top All-Stars In Pistol

The Midland Police Dept. picked up a 1,392-1,359 victory in a pistol match with the Beaver Valley All-Stars Thursday night on the Midland range.

Eli Bratish fired 294 to lead Midland while other scores included Vincent D'tri 280, William Anusich 279, Milan Borato 271 and Sam Ratkovich 268. Wertchman with a 292 was high for the all-stars.

Thomas Gets Final Crack At Russian High Jumper

NEW YORK (AP)—John Thomas gets his final crack at Valery Brumel for the winter tonight in the Knights of Columbus games in Madison Square Garden.

To date, Brumel, the Soviet high jumping whiz-kid, is batting 1,000, two victories in two tries against Thomas. He went 7-3 in the New York Athletic Club meet two weeks ago to Thomas' 7-1. Then last Saturday in the AAU championships, he cleared 7-2 to 7 for Thomas.

The Boston University junior celebrated his 20th birthday today, but he'll still be the underdog.

Thomas' coach, Ed Flanagan, still hasn't given up hope of scoring at least one victory over Brumel.

Brumel, 18, said he hopes to get off a jump of 7-4 to 7-5 in his final appearance here before heading back to Moscow and his schoolwork Saturday.

He already has jumped higher than anyone in history—7-4½ in Lenningrad on Jan. 28.

Otherwise, the feature will be the mile with Istvan Rozsavolgyi of Hungary favored and still trying for a sub-four-minute mark indoors.

Eugeny Momotkov of the Soviet Union, who ran in the mile last week, will return to two miles tonight, dueling George Young of Fort Lee, Va.

George Kerr, the Big Ten champion from Illinois by way of the British West Indies, shoots for the indoor 600-yard record of 1:09.5 held jointly by Mal Whitfield and Tom Courtney.

Jerry Seibert of California, who has won both his indoor starts, is the 1,000-yard choice. Hayes Jones of Ypsilanti, Mich., is the 60-yard high hurdles favorite, and Don Bragg of the Delaware Valley A. A., should win the pole vault.

Lakers Fast Nailing Down Playoff Spot

The Los Angeles Lakers, thanks to Elgin Baylor, are fast nailing down a playoff spot in the National Basketball Association.

Baylor scored 34 points Thursday night to lead the Lakers to a 114-110 triumph over the Syracuse Nationals in the league's only game. The victory gave second-place Los Angeles a three-game edge over Detroit and a 3½ game lead over Cincinnati, the cellar team in the Western Division.

Nips Springfield 60-58 For Title

Spires Scores 26; Ironmen Eye Sectional Opener

By CHUCK CRONIN
Review Sports Writer

Five tired kids and their young, confident coach basked in glory today in Irondale after Stanton Local High clinched its first Jefferson County basketball championship in 24 years Thursday night.

With a crowd of over 1,000 looking on, the Irons defeated Springfield, 60-58, for the title and thus became only the second team from the small community ever to turn the trick.

The victory, a narrow one in the windup of the 37th annual county A eliminations at Brilliant, was the 19th in a row for the Irons who are one of the few unbeaten quints in Eastern Ohio.

The squad hardly has time to catch its breath before returning to action Saturday night as a co-finalist in the Sectional A eliminations, also at Brilliant.

Springfield, a loser three times already to Stanton Local, will again furnish the opposition. The winner will join the victory of the Powhatan-Tiltonsville battle in the District tournament at Dennison next week.

Springfield subjected Coach Harry Diehl's Irons to a stiff test before developing foul troubles late in the final quarter and losing by a narrow margin.

Stanton Local's eight point lead at the opening of the final quarter didn't last long and Springfield battled back to tie the score at 58-58 with less than a minute remaining.

But Don (Wilt) Spires, 6-foot, 6-inch pivot star, connected on a push shot from the keyhole area in the final seconds to provide the edge for Stanton Local.

Spires, only a junior but still a Grade A point-producer, poured in 26 in the championship game to qualify as the tournament's top star. He'll carry a sparkling 23.6 point average into Saturday's important contest with 449 for the year.

Under first-year Coach Diehl, Stanton won Irondale's first tournament crown since Coach C. P. Henderson's quint in 1937.

Springfield brashly opened up with a 12-5 lead late in the first quarter, then led nearly all of the second to force Stanton's offensive attack out of its sub-par operations.

The Irons snared a 32-31 halftime lead on Jim Leedy's pivot shot and stretched it to eight points when the third quarter had elapsed, 51-43.

Center Dale Featheringham connected on a foul shot to narrow Stanton's lead to 57-56, Spires and red-haired Bob McConnell matched goals for a 58-58 deadlock, then the Stanton center presented Irondale the title with a jump shot with time running out.

It couldn't have been closer as Springfield actually outgoaled the Irons, 23-22. Stanton's victory came at the foul line where the squad sank 16 of 38 and Springfield 12 of 20.

"The kids deserved the victory," Diehl asserted after his jubilant squadmen had cut away the nets for souvenirs in a traditional post-game ceremony.

"We didn't shoot as well tonight as we have been, but I wasn't too worried at any time," the Stanton mentor said confidently. The squad fired 44 per cent for the night, somewhat below the team's season mark of a sizzling 53 per cent.

The turning point of the title game developed in the third quarter when the Irons outscored Springfield by 19 to 12.

Spires turned in a brilliant offensive game even though he didn't get much opportunity to shoot until the late stages.

Bob Mills, the other half of Stanton's one-two punch, hit 13 points on six goals from long range. He received a groin injury in the final quarter but wasn't injured seriously. The burst upped his season total to 306 for a 16.1 average.

Stanton's other three starters included John Lutton with 10 points on four goals and two fouls, Jim Leedy with five points and Curt Rose with six. Rose fouled out early in the final period and was replaced by Ernest Leedy.

Featheringham, 6-2 junior, led Springfield with 20 points and scored consistently throughout the game. Coach Tony Golas' Tigers also placed three others in double figures with Bob McConnell hitting 13, Sivets 12 and Gary Howell 11.

The championship trophy was accepted on behalf of the squad by Stanton's only seniors — Lutton and Ernest Leedy.

Supt. C. P. Henderson, tournament director, presented Springfield with the runner-up award, while Mt. Pleasant won both the consolation and sportsmanship trophies.

Mt. Pleasant defeated Brilliant in the consolation preliminary, 44-42, in a thriller.

Coach Robert Henderson's Brilliant squad lost at the buzzer as Mike Nichols of Mount Pleasant grabbed a rebound and hit on a "falling-down" shot under the bucket with two seconds left.

Springfield, which won the championship in 1951 and 1957, goes into the Sectional eliminations with a 17-5 record. Mt. Pleasant ended the season with a 17-3 slate, while Brilliant, under the former Irondale athlete, concluded at 7-13.

Wellsburg, Union Matched In Finals At W. Liberty

WEST LIBERTY — Chester's tournament season was short and sweet as the Panthers dropped their first start to Wellsburg by a 57-36 count here Thursday night on the West Liberty College court.

Coach Max Tuttle's team wasn't exactly a pushover, but faltered in the final quarter after keeping within striking range of the contest.

Wellsburg will face Benwood Union tonight at 8 in the finals of the Class AA District tourney. Union defeated Follansbee, 73-51, in the first game Thursday night.

Wellsburg led 16-5 at the end of the first quarter, but the Panthers jumped back into contention by pulling within one point, 18-17, late in the second quarter but then fell behind, 24-17, at halftime.

Opening the third quarter, Chester moved to within three points, 31-28, but Wellsburg took command of the contest by scoring 10 straight points to take a 41-28 lead.

Sophomore Jim Tridico topped the Panthers with 12 points while veteran Blaine Pinney dropped in 10. O'Connell was the big gun for Wellsburg with 22 markers.

Chester ended its campaign with an overall 5-16 record.

Cincinnati Awaits Tournament Bid After Winning 17th Straight Tilt

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Cincinnati's Bearcats don't have Oscar Robertson this season and they don't have a tournament committment yet. But it doesn't seem to make much difference in their case.

The Bearcats now have won 17 games in a row after beating Xavier, their crosstown rival, 89-53 Thursday night to make their season record 22-3. The tournament bid—either to the NCAA or the National Invitation event — will come in due time, possibly Saturday.

In other tournament-connected developments, Texas Tech qualified as the 10th NCAA entry by whipping Texas 63-60 and winning its first Southwest Conference championship.

Duke and West Virginia got off to flying starts in the Atlantic Coast and Southern Conference tournaments. The tournament winners qualify for the NCAA playoffs.

New York University blew its chance for an NIT invitation when it took a 92-69 thumping from Georgetown (D.C.). That apparently leaves the choice among eager Duquesne, Holy Cross and possibly Tennessee State for the 12th spot. Colorado State U. already has tentatively accepted in anticipation of finishing second to Utah in the Skyline Conference.

St. John's (N.Y.) and Rhode Island, both bound for the NCAA eastern playoffs, came together and it was the St. John's redmen all the way, 86-74. NIT-bound Providence tuned up with an 81-59 victory over little Fairfield.

Duke, a slight favorite in the ACC tournament, whomped Virginia 89-54—a 35-point margin that set a tournament record.

South Carolina tumbled third-seeded N. C. State 80-78.

West Virginia, seeking its seventh straight Southern Conference title, clouted VMI, 89-71 for its 13th straight victory. But George Washington beat co-favorite Virginia Tech 89-71. William and Mary beat Furman 86-84 and the Citadel beat Richmond 70-66 in other first round games.

In scattered games elsewhere, Manhattan downed Syracuse 82-76 in the first game of the Madison Square Garden doubleheader that ended in Georgetown's second half humiliation of NYU; Missouri sent Iowa State down to fifth in the Big Eight with a 95-82 decision and Seattle downed Idaho State 57-55.

Newk Tries Comeback This Season With LA

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

There was a time when Don Newcombe's first spring pitching appearances were intended only to shake the winter cobwebs out of the big right-hander's arm.

Now, Newcombe's major league life depends on these initial efforts.

Thirty-four-years old and a journeyman since he was traded by the Los Angeles Dodgers in June 1958, Newk is attempting a comeback with those same Dodgers. And he's making progress.

Thursday he faced the minimum six batsmen in a two-inning intrasquad game and his performance drew words of praise from Manager Walter Alston.

Newcombe won 27 games in 1956 when he was named the National League's most valuable player and the winner of the Cy Young award as the majors' outstanding pitcher. He went steadily downhill after that, compiling a combined 6-9 for Cincinnati and Cleveland last year. The Indians released him last fall.

In other training camps, hitters dominated the action.

Bob Cerv cracked out three singles and Earl Averill had a homer and a single in the Los Angeles Angels' intrasquad game. A double by Bob Skinner and a single by Rocky Nelson in Pittsburgh's first squad tilt gave a a team managed by Ron Northey a 4-3 victory over Frank Oceak's men.

The power hitters had a field day in the Kansas City camp although it was only batting practice. The drill was featured by the long ball hitting of Andy Carey, Haywood Sullivan and rookie Jim McManus.

The Cincinnati Reds concentrated on base-running. Manager Freddie Hutchinson vowed his players will take more chances on the base paths this year.

In other baseball news, Juan Pizarro, obtained from Milwaukee reported three days late to the Chicago White Sox. He offered this excuse: "I was working on my income tax." Woody Held, Cleveland's hard-hitting shortstop said the broken finger that kept him out of 45 games last year has completely healed.

Defending Ohio 'A' Cage Champs Defeated

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Salem Local, the defending Ohio basketball champion among Class A high schools, is out of the running for this year's laurels.

The champs from Kingscreek, near Urbana, lost to Indian Lake 63-56 in the opening round Thursday night of the Springfield district tournament.

Salem Local, which ended this season with a 15-3 record, last year won 27 consecutive games and defeated Frazeysburg in the finals of the state championship in Columbus.

In leading Prove It to victory in the Santa Anita Maturity, jockey Willie Shoemaker picked up more in two minutes than the Pirates realized in winning the seven-game World Series. Shoemaker got $9,337 for his victory.

Stanton Local Hangs Up First County Crown In 24 Years

Chester Bows In District Tourney To Wellsburg, 57-36

Nips Springfield 60-58 For Title

Spires Scores 26; Ironmen Eye Sectional Opener

By CHUCK CRONIN
Review Sports Writer

Five tired kids and their young, confident coach basked in glory today in Irondale after Stanton Local High clinched its first Jefferson County basketball championship in 24 years Thursday night.

With a crowd of over 1,000 looking on, the Irons defeated Springfield, 60-58, for the title and thus became only the second team from the small community ever to turn the trick.

The victory, a narrow one in the windup of the 37th annual county A eliminations at Brilliant, was the 19th in a row for the Irons who are one of the few unbeaten quints in Eastern Ohio.

The squad hardly has time to catch its breath before returning to action Saturday night as a co-finalist in the Sectional A eliminations, also at Brilliant.

Springfield, a loser three times already to Stanton Local, will again furnish the opposition. The winner will join the victory of the Powhatan-Tiltonsville battle in the District tournament at Dennison next week.

Springfield subjected Coach Harry Diehl's Irons to a stiff test before developing foul troubles late in the final quarter and losing by a narrow margin.

Stanton Local's eight point lead at the opening of the final quarter didn't last long and Springfield battled back to tie the score at 58-58 with less than a minute remaining.

But Don (Wilt) Spires, 6-foot, 6-inch pivot star, connected on a push shot from the keyhole area in the final seconds to provide the edge for Stanton Local.

Spires, only a junior but still a Grade A point-producer, poured in 26 in the championship game to qualify as the tournament's top star. He'll carry a sparkling 23.6 point average into Saturday's important contest with 449 for the year.

Under first-year Coach Diehl, Stanton won Irondale's first tournament crown since Coach C. P. Henderson's quint in 1937.

Springfield brashly opened up with a 12-5 lead late in the first quarter, then led nearly all of the second to force Stanton's offensive attack out of its sub-par operations.

The Irons snared a 32-31 halftime lead on Jim Leedy's pivot shot and stretched it to eight points when the third quarter had elapsed, 51-43.

Springfield, which lost high-scoring Dick Sivets on personal fouls with two minutes left in the third quarter, came back strong to cut Stanton's lead to 57-55 with three minutes left in the game.

Center Dale Featheringham connected on a foul shot to narrow Stanton's lead to 57-56, Spires and red-haired Bob McConnell matched goals for a 58-58 deadlock, then the Stanton center presented Irondale the title with a jump shot with time running out.

It couldn't have been closer as Springfield actually outgoaled the Irons, 23-22. Stanton's victory came at the foul line where the squad sank 16 of 38 and Springfield 12 of 20.

"The kids deserved the victory," Diehl asserted after his jubilant squadmen had cut away the nets for souvenirs in a traditional post-game ceremony.

"We didn't shoot as well tonight as we have been, but I wasn't too worried at any time," the Stanton mentor said confidently. The squad fired 44 per cent for the night, somewhat below the team's season mark of a sizzling 53 per cent.

The turning point of the title game developed in the third quarter when the Irons outscored Springfield by 19 to 12.

Spires turned in a brilliant offensive game even though he didn't get much opportunity to shoot until the late stages.

Bob Mills, the other half of Stanton's one-two punch, hit 13 points on six goals from long range. He received a groin injury in the final quarter but wasn't injured seriously. The burst upped his season total to 306 for a 16.1 average.

Stanton's other three starters included John Lutton with 10 points on four goals and two fouls, Jim Leedy with five points and Curt Rose with six. Rose fouled out early in the final period and was replaced by Ernest Leedy.

Featheringham, 6-2 junior, led Springfield with 20 points and scored consistently throughout the game. Coach Tony Golas' Tigers also placed three others in double figures with Bob McConnell hitting 13, Sivets 12 and Gary Howell 11.

The championship trophy was accepted on behalf of the squad by Stanton's only seniors — Lutton and Ernest Leedy.

Supt. C. P. Henderson, tournament director, presented Springfield with the runner-up award, while Mt. Pleasant won both the consolation and sportsmanship trophies.

Mt. Pleasant defeated Brilliant in the consolation preliminary, 44-42, in a thriller.

Coach Robert Henderson's Brilliant squad lost at the buzzer as Mike Nichols of Mount Pleasant grabbed a rebound and hit on a "falling-down" shot under the bucket with two seconds left.

Springfield, which won the championship in 1951 and 1957, goes into the Sectional eliminations with a 17-5 record. Mt. Pleasant ended the season with a 17-3 slate, while Brilliant, under the former Irondale athlete, concluded at 7-13.

Wellsburg, Union Matched In Finals At W. Liberty

WEST LIBERTY — Chester's tournament season was short and sweet as the Panthers dropped their first start to Wellsburg by a 57-36 count here Thursday night on the West Liberty College court.

Coach Max Tuttle's team wasn't exactly a pushover, but faltered in the final quarter after keeping within striking range of the contest.

Wellsburg will face Benwood Union tonight at 8 in the finals of the Class AA District tourney. Union defeated Follansbee, 73-51, in the first game Thursday night.

Wellsburg led 16-5 at the end of the first quarter, but the Panthers jumped back into contention by pulling within one point, 18-17, late in the second quarter but then fell behind, 24-17, at halftime.

Opening the third quarter, Chester moved to within three points, 31-28, but Wellsburg took command of the contest by scoring 10 straight points to take a 41-28 lead.

Sophomore Jim Tridico topped the Panthers with 12 points while veteran Blaine Pinney dropped in 10. O'Connell was the big gun for Wellsburg with 22 markers.

Chester ended its campaign with an overall 5-16 record.

Newk Tries Comeback This Season With LA

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

There was a time when Don Newcombe's first spring pitching appearances were intended only to shake the winter cobwebs out of the big right-hander's arm.

Now, Newcombe's major league life depends on these initial efforts.

Thirty-four-years old and a journeyman since he was traded by the Los Angeles Dodgers in Jun.e 1958, Newk is attempting a comeback with those same Dodgers. And he's making progress.

Thursday he faced the minimum six batsmen in a two-inning intrasquad game and his performance drew words of praise from Manager Walter Alston.

Newcombe won 27 games in 1956 when he was named the National League's most valuable player and the winner of the Cy Young award as the majors' outstanding pitcher. He went steadily downhill after that, compiling a combined 6-9 for Cincinnati and Cleveland last year. The Indians released him last fall.

In other training camps, hitters dominated the action.

Bob Cerv cracked out three singles and Earl Averill had a homer and a single in the Los Angeles Angels' intrasquad game. A double by Bob Skinner and a single by Rocky Nelson in Pittsburgh's first squad tilt gave a team managed by Ron Northey a 4-3 victory over Frank Oceak's men.

The power hitters had a field day in the Kansas City camp although it was only batting practice. The drill was featured by the long ball hitting of Andy Carey, Haywood Sullivan and rookie Jim McManus.

The Cincinnati Reds concentrated on base-running. Manager Freddie Hutchinson vowed his players will take more chances on the base paths this year.

In other baseball news, Juan Pizarro, obtained from Milwaukee reported three days late to the Chicago White Sox. He offered this excuse: "I was working on my income tax." Woody Held, Cleveland's hard-hitting shortstop said the broken finger that kept him out of 45 games last year has completely healed.

Cincinnati Awaits Tournament Bid After Winning 17th Straight Tilt

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Cincinnati's Bearcats don't have Oscar Robertson this season and they don't have a tournament committment yet. But it doesn't seem to make much difference in their case.

The Bearcats now have won 17 games in a row after beating Xavier, their crosstown rival, 89-53 Thursday night to make their season record 22-3. The tournament bid—either to the NCAA or the National Invitation event — will come in due time, possibly Saturday.

In other tournament-connected developments, Texas Tech qualified as the 10th NCAA entry by whipping Texas 63-60 and winning its first Southwest Conference championship.

Duke and West Virginia got off to flying starts in the Atlantic Coast and Southern Conference tournaments. The tournament winners qualify for the NCAA playoffs.

New York University blew its chance for an NIT invitation when it took a 92-69 thumping from Georgetown (D.C.). That apparently leaves the choice among eager Duquesne, Holy Cross and possibly Tennessee State for the 12th spot. Colorado State U. already has tentatively accepted in anticipation of finishing second to Utah in the Skyline Conference.

St. John's (N.Y.) and Rhode Island, both bound for the NCAA eastern playoffs, came together and it was the St. John's redmen all the way, 86-74. NIT-bound Providence tuned up with an 81-59 victory over little Fairfield.

Duke, a slight favorite in the ACC tournament, whomped Virginia 89-54—a 35-point margin that set a tournament record.

South Carolina tumbled third-seeded N. C. State 80-78.

West Virginia, seeking its seventh straight Southern Conference title, clouted VMI, 89-71 for its 13th straight victory. But George Washington beat co-favorite Virginia Tech 89-71. William and Mary beat Furman 86-84 and the Citadel beat Richmond 70-66 in other first round games.

In scattered games elsewhere, Manhattan downed Syracuse 82-76 in the first game of the Madison Square Garden doubleheader that ended in Georgetown's second half humiliation of NYU; Missouri sent Iowa State down to fifth in the Big Eight with a 95-82 decision and Seattle downed Idaho State 57-55.

Primary Vote Scheduled By Pottery Union

Members of the International Brotherhood of Operative Potters will vote Tuesday at local union headquarters throughout the United States and in Canada to nominate candidates for 12 top union offices in preparation for a general election May 2.

The list of candidates stands unchanged at 34, the IBOP said as it announced ballots have been mailed to all locals.

In the top contest, E. L. Wheatley of East Liverpool is running for another term as president, opposed by Floyd Jividen, a member of East Liverpool Local 130, kilnfiremen, helpers and trackmen.

Three incumbents are unopposed: Secretary-Treasurer Charles F. Jordan, George Smith of Trenton, N. J., ninth vice president, and George Barbaree, also of Trenton, fourth vice president.

George Pace of Huntington Park, Calif., second vice president, declined nomination for another term because of ill health. The field of four candidates for his post includes William Rail, also of Huntington Park, now 10th vice president. Both Pace and Rail work out of the IBOP's west coast office.

In all other cases, incumbents are running for new terms.

The IBOP reminded locals that election returns must be forwarded to the international canvassing committee by registered mail withing 72 hours. Unions located over 200 miles from East Liverpool should send the tabulations by registered air mail, it added.

The two candidates receiving the highest vote for each office will run again in the general election. Terms will be for four years, rather than for two as at present, under a constitutional change approved in 1959.

The slate for other offices follows:

First vice president; Walter Clawges of Trenton, the incumbent, and Richard Gronostajski of Local 148 at Trenton.

Second vice president: Rail, Victor Dorrell of Local 138, Carl F. Warning of Local 10 and John Hart of Local 36, all of East Liverpool.

Third vice president; James Slaven of Cannons Mills, incumbent; E. C. Armstrong of Local 124, East Liverpool; J. Albert Grafton of Local 10, East Liverpool; Paul Licatovich of Local 104, Falls Creek, Pa., and Raymond Votaw of Local 178, Sebring.

Fifth vice president: Arthur Devlin of Trenton, incumbent; Joseph Guadagno of Local 181, Trenton; Joseph Leadem of Local 49, Trenton, and Thomas Lott of Local 236, Pomona, Calif.

Sixth vice president; Frank Dales of East Liverpool, incumbent; Frank Duffy of Local 10, East Liverpool; Peter J. Medure of Local 133, New Castle, and Raymond Pinkerton of Local 59, Sebring.

Seventh vice president: Leonard Greco of Beaver Falls, incumbent; Guy Digman of Local 12, East Liverpool, and Charles Cobb of Local 108, Bedford.

Eighth vice president; Clyde Jones of Alliance, incumbent; James T. Coleman of Local 207, Crooksville, and Joseph Harp of Local 59, Sebring.

Tenth vice president; John Engleby of Local 201, Huntington Park; John Feltes of Local 218, Torrance, Calif.; Fred Mountford of Local 222, Pasadena, Calif., and Bernard Rowbottom of Local 214, Redlands, Calif.

The ballot also lists 25 candidates for two posts as delegate to the AFL-CIO convention.

People of the world who speak English — 284 million — are outnumbered by those speaking Mandarin Chinese — 469 million.

City Tool Control Plan's Adequate, Director Replies

An investigation has shown the tool control system in the street department is "entirely adequate" and there has been no rash of missing tools, Safety-Service Director Lee Copenhaver said today, replying to a statement issued Thursday by Auditor Lawrence Applegate.

As part of an admonition on economy, the auditor had suggested establishing a toolroom, then charging employes with the hand tools with which they start work each morning and checking them off again at night.

"I have made a diligent check and I find no tools missing," the director said today. "I admit that in a big operation like the street department we might lose or mislay a tool once in awhile."

"In my opinion, the present tool control system is adequate," the director said. "There has been no rash of lost or missing tools."

Primary Vote Scheduled By Pottery Union

Members of the International Brotherhood of Operative Potters will vote Tuesday at local union headquarters throughout the United States and in Canada to nominate candidates for 12 top union offices in preparation for a general election May 2.

The list of candidates stands unchanged at 34, the IBOP said as it announced ballots have been mailed to all locals.

In the top contest, E. L. Wheatley of East Liverpool is running for another term as president, opposed by Floyd Jividen, a member of East Liverpool Local 130, kilnfiremen, helpers and trackmen.

Three incumbents are unopposed: Secretary-Treasurer Charles F. Jordan, George Smith of Trenton, N. J., ninth vice president, and George Barbaree, also of Trenton, fourth vice president.

George Pace of Huntington Park, Calif., second vice president, declined nomination for another term because of ill health. The field of four candidates for his post includes William Rail, also of Huntington Park, now 10th vice president. Both Pace and Rail work out of the IBOP's west coast office.

In all other cases, incumbents are running for new terms.

The IBOP reminded locals that election returns must be forwarded to the international canvassing committee by registered mail withing 72 hours. Unions located over 200 miles from East Liverpool should send the tabulations by registered air mail, it added.

The two candidates receiving the highest vote for each office will run again in the general election. Terms will be for four years, rather than for two as at present, under a constitutional change approved in 1959.

The slate for other offices follows:

First vice president; Walter Clawges of Trenton, the incumbent, and Richard Gronostajski of Local 148 at Trenton.

Second vice president: Rail, Victor Dorrell of Local 138, Carl F. Warning of Local 10 and John Hart of Local 86, all of East Liverpool.

Third vice president; James Slaven of Cannons Mills, incumbent; E. C. Armstrong of Local 124, East Liverpool; J. Albert Grafton of Local 10, East Liverpool; Paul Licatovich of Local 104, Falls Creek, Pa., and Raymond Votaw of Local 178, Sebring.

Fifth vice president: Arthur Devlin of Trenton, incumbent; Joseph Guadagno of Local 181, Trenton; Joseph Leadem of Local 49, Trenton, and Thomas Lott of Local 236, Pomona, Calif.

Sixth vice president; Frank Dales of East Liverpool, incumbent; Frank Duffy of Local 10, East Liverpool; Peter J. Medure of Local 133, New Castle, and Raymond Pinkerton of Local 59, Sebring.

Seventh vice president: Leonard Greco of Beaver Falls, incumbent; Guy Digman of Local 12, East Liverpool, and Charles Cobb of Local 108, Bedford.

Eighth vice president; Clyde Jones of Alliance, incumbent; James T. Coleman of Local 207, Crooksville, and Joseph Harp of Local 59, Sebring.

Tenth vice president; John Engleby of Local 201, Huntington Park; John Feltes of Local 218, Torrance, Calif.; Fred Mountford of Local 222, Pasadena, Calif., and Bernard Rowbottom of Local 214, Redlands, Calif.

The ballot also lists 25 candidates for two posts as delegate to the AFL-CIO convention.

People of the world who speak English — 284 million — are outnumbered by those speaking Mandarin Chinese — 469 million.

City Tool Control Plan's Adequate, Director Replies

An investigation has shown the tool control system in the street department is "entirely adequate" and there has been no rash of missing tools, Safety-Service Director Lee Copenhaver said today, replying to a statement issued Thursday by Auditor Lawrence Applegate.

As part of an admonition on economy, the auditor had suggested establishing a toolroom, then charging employes with the hand tools with which they start work each morning and checking them off again at night.

"I have made a diligent check and I find no tools missing," the director said today. "I admit that in a big operation like the street department we might lose or mislay a tool once in awhile."

"In my opinion, the present tool control system is adequate," the director said. "There has been no rash of lost or missing tools."

Public Opinion Sought

Plan To Have Judges Run Unopposed On Ballot Eyed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio State Bar Association is sounding out the public on its plan to have judges run for election unopposed.

The first step in this venture is a two-day conference here attended by 60 persons from all walks of life. The association wants to find out how these people feel about the plan.

The plan failed to be adopted by the Ohio legislature two years ago but it has the backing of the American Bar Association.

It was originated nearly 50 years ago by the American Judicature Society and is now in use, in whole or in part, in five states.

The society's executive director, Glenn R. Winters of Chicago, speaking at the Columbus conference Thursday night, listed what he called the major faults of the present appointive and elective system for judges:

1. "It tends to cause the wrong men to be selected for the bench."

2. "It adversely affects the work of the judge after he is on the bench."

Elaborating later, Winters said the better judicial material is discouraged from running for judicial office because of insecurity of tenure.

"They have no assurance," he said, "that they won't be defeated in the next election, and their clients are all gone in the meantime."

Also, he said, some men of the finest judicial temperament are "repelled" by the fact they have to campaign for office. Winters explained:

"They have to keep their names before the public and it involves them in many activities which are inconsistent with the dignity of judicial office—such as going to county fairs and kissing babies and attending sports events while the judicial events are waiting."

Here's how it would work:

A nominating commission of 10 members—one from each appellate court district in the state—would be appointed by the governor. The commission would be equally divided between Republicans and Democrats and between lawyers and laymen, with members having staggered terms.

To fill a judgeship, they would draw up a list of two to five judicial candidates. One would be picked by the governor for appointment.

After a period of years, the appointed judge would run for election without a competing candidate. The voters would check either "yes" or "no" on whether they believe the judge should continue in office, based on his record.

Gov. Michael V. DiSalle told the conference he had appointed about 50 men to Ohio courts in his two years in office. But in certain counties, he said, he had found it difficult to get the men he wanted because of the limited pay and lack of job security.

Another speaker was Forrest M. Hemker of St. Louis, a member of the judicial selection committee of Missouri, where the plan has been in effect for 20 years. Hemker said the nonpartisan plan had been "more than satisfactory" and had resulted in the selection of higher-type appointees.

"The Achilles heel of the plan," Winters admitted, "is the nominating commission. In Alaska there have been complaints that there was politics within the commission."

And during the first eight years of the plan in Missouri, he said, the governor tended to pick judges from his own party before bipartisan selection finally took hold.

The plan would require a constitutional amendment in Ohio and approval by the voters, he said.

Also addressing the conference was Chief Justice Carl V. Weygandt of the Ohio Supreme Court.

The graying chief justice said most people do not understand the operation of Ohio's judicial system. He said Ohioans also have difficulty in selecting qualified judges because the candidates are not known.

English Pacifists Protest

U.S. Navy Ship At Scottish Basin To Set Up Sub Base

HOLY LOCH, Scotland (AP)—A U. S. Navy depot ship sailed today into this River Clyde basin to set up a Polaris missile submarine base here under protection of a British warship against a mosquito armada of English pacifists.

The American sub tender Proteus anchored momentarily off Cumbrae Island, 15 miles down river, as demonstrators poured into the Holy Loch area to give a hostile welcome to the 18,000-ton vessel and its 950 crewmen.

The British frigate Exmouth was set to repel attempts by pacifists to board the Proteus or blockade its passage after spending the night at buoys reserved for the Proteus.

Before daybreak 16 Scottish youths raided the lochside camp of six English pacifists who had massed a canoe fleet to sail into the Proteus' path.

The raiders cut off the young camp guard's beard, daubed the canoes with the painted slogan "Welcome Yanks," and tossed several canoes over a six-foot wall.

"We don't like you foreigners coming here and creating this kind of disturbance," one Scotsman told the lone guard.

The pacifists later recovered their midget fleet of four canoes and two dinghies.

Along the shore an unidentified clergyman handed out anti-Polaris leaflets, one of the weapons the Scottish Council for Nuclear Disarmament and other groups have used for months to fight plans for the base.

One of the English canoe-fleet pacifists said: "We won't attempt to ram the Proteus, but we won't get out of the way if the Proteus tries to ram us."

Whether the canoes would line up in a blockade was doubtful, since the Exmouth is standing guard and part of the miniature fleet was damaged by the Scottish raiders.

Public Opinion Sought

Plan To Have Judges Run Unopposed On Ballot Eyed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio State Bar Association is sounding out the public on its plan to have judges run for election unopposed.

The first step in this venture is a two-day conference here attended by 60 persons from all walks of life. The association wants to find out how these people feel about the plan.

The plan failed to be adopted by the Ohio legislature two years ago but it has the backing of the American Bar Association.

It was originated nearly 50 years ago by the American Judicature Society and is now in use, in whole or in part, in five states.

The society's executive director, Glenn R. Winters of Chicago, speaking at the Columbus conference Thursday night, listed what he called the major faults of the present appointive and elective system for judges:

1. "It tends to cause the wrong men to be selected for the bench."

2. "It adversely affects the work of the judge after he is on the bench."

Elaborating later, Winters said the better judicial material is discouraged from running for judicial office because of insecurity of tenure.

"They have no assurance," he said, "that they won't be defeated in the next election, and their clients are all gone in the meantime."

Also, he said, some men of the finest judicial temperament are "repelled" by the fact they have to campaign for office. Winters explained:

"They have to keep their names before the public and it involves them in many activities which are inconsistent with the dignity of judicial office—such as going to county fairs and kissing babies and attending sports events while the judicial events are waiting."

The Ohio bar association hopes its proposal, if put into effect in this state, would eliminate many of the faults which Winters discussed.

Here's how it would work:

A nominating commission of 10 members—one from each appellate court district in the state—would be appointed by the governor. The commission would be equally divided between Republicans and Democrats and between lawyers and laymen, with members having staggered terms.

To fill a judgeship, they would draw up a list of two to five judicial candidates. One would be picked by the governor for appointment.

After a period of years, the appointed judge would run for election without a competing candidate. The voters would check either "yes" or "no" on whether they believe the judge should continue in office, based on his record.

Gov. Michael V. DiSalle told the conference he had appointed about 50 men to Ohio courts in his two years in office. But in certain counties, he said, he had found it difficult to get the men he wanted because of the limited pay and lack of job security.

Another speaker was Forrest M. Hemker of St. Louis, a member of the judicial selection committee of Missouri, where the plan has been in effect for 20 years. Hemker said the nonpartisan plan had been "more than satisfactory" and had resulted in the selection of higher-type appointees.

"The Achilles heel of the plan," Winters admitted, "is the nominating commission. In Alaska there have been complaints that there was politics within the commission."

And during the first eight years of the plan in Missouri, he said, the governor tended to pick judges from his own party before bipartisan selection finally took hold.

The plan would require a constitutional amendment in Ohio and approval by the voters, he said.

Also addressing the conference was Chief Justice Carl V. Weygandt of the Ohio Supreme Court.

The graying chief justice said most people do not understand the operation of Ohio's judicial system. He said Ohioans also have difficulty in selecting qualified judges because the candidates are not known.

English Pacifists Protest

U.S. Navy Ship At Scottish Basin To Set Up Sub Base

HOLY LOCH, Scotland (AP)—A U. S. Navy depot ship sailed today into this River Clyde basin to set up a Polaris missile submarine base here under protection of a British warship against a mosquito armada of English pacifists.

The American sub tender Proteus anchored momentarily off Cumbrae Island, 15 miles down river, as demonstrators poured into the Holy Loch area to give a hostile welcome to the 18,000-ton vessel and its 950 crewmen.

The British frigate Exmouth was set to repel attempts by pacifists to board the Proteus or blockade its passage after spending the night at buoys reserved for the Proteus.

Before daybreak 16 Scottish youths raided the lochside camp of six English pacifists who had massed a canoe fleet to sail into the Proteus' path.

The raiders cut off the young camp guard's beard, daubed the canoes with the painted slogan "Welcome Yanks." and tossed several canoes over a six-foot wall.

"We don't like you foreigners coming here and creating this kind of disturbance," one Scotsman told the lone guard.

The pacifists later recovered their midget fleet of four canoes and two dinghies.

Along the shore an unidentified clergyman handed out anti-Polaris leaflets, one of the weapons the Scottish Council for Nuclear Disarmament and other groups have used for months to fight plans for the base.

One of the English canoe fleet pacifists said: "We won't attempt to ram the Proteus, but we won't get out of the way if the Proteus tries to ram us."

Whether the canoes would line up in a blockade was doubtful, since the Exmouth is standing guard and part of the miniature fleet was damaged by the Scottish raiders.

GI Policy Checks Are Accelerated

A. G. Bille, contact representative-in-charge of the Veterans Administration Office, 227 N. 5th St., Steubenville, said that accelerated payments of more than a quarter-billion dollars in GI insurance dividends are keeping VA busy.

The speedup, ordered by the President to aid the economy, affects more than 5 million veteran policyholders.

Bille said that as many dividend payments as possible will be placed in the mails by the end of the winter. The dividends, primarily refunds made possible because the death rate among GI policyholders continues to be lower than the rate upon which premiums were set by law, will go to veterans who currently have either term or permanent plan participating National Service Life Insurance or U. S. Government Life Insurance policies.

They are normally paid over a 12-month period.

Bille urged veterans not to make individual inquiries about dividends since the answering of such inquiries would divert personnel from processing dividends and create delay in payments. For further information, contact Bille at the VA Office at Steubenville.

2 Fliers Freed By Soviets To Disclose Dramatic Story

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP)—Two Air Force captains today will have their first chance to give the public a dramatic story.

On July 1, 1960, Soviet fighter planes shot down an American jet reconnaisance plane over the Barents Sea.

Thus far, the public knows only these few facts:

Six men were aboard the downed plane. The Soviets sent one body back to America. Two were imprisoned nearly seven months. The other three are missing.

Capts. Freeman B. Olmstead and John R. McKone, released from a Soviet prison Jan. 25, have been shielded by the Air Force from newsmen since their return.

Today they will be questioned by reporters for the first time.

The two captains have much to tell: How their jet plane was shot down. How they were plucked from the icy sea. Where they were imprisoned. How they were questioned, and how they spent the long months away from their families.

The Air Force has said only that the plane was mapping magnetic fields; was not over Soviet territory, and that Olmstead and McKone don't know what happened to the missing crewmen.

Missing are Maj. Eugene E. Posa, 38, Visalia, Calif.; 1st Lt. Dean B. Phillips, 25, Sacramento, Calif.; and 1st Lt. Oscar L. Goforth, 26, Sardis, Okla.

Capt. William A. Palm, 39, Oak Ridge, Tenn., was killed.

The crew and their RB47 plane were stationed at Forbes Air Force Base near Topeka and were sent abroad in June, 1960.
